BOTH CONFESS.

Walling and Jackson Tell of the Butchery of Pearl Bryan.

BOTH STORIES COINCIDE.

Tried to Shield Another Criminal in the Case.

THE ACTIONS OF A DOCTOR.

Murderers Will Mount the Scaffold Tomorrow Without Fail

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—Both the Enquirer and the Commercial Tribune print today, confessions by Scott Jackson and Alonzo M. Walling, signed respectively by their authors. The text of these confessions is copyrighted.

Jackson lays the blame for the condition of Pearl Bryan on William F. Wood who, he says, solicited him by letter to give her relief from disgrace for his sake. He engaged Walling to find some one who would perform a delicate task. Wednesday, January 29th, Walling told him that he had sent Miss Bryan to a doctor. Thursday Walling received word to go out to Dr. Wagner's at Bellevue, Ky., near Newport. He and Walling, both went out. They arranged to be there again Friday night, January 31st. They both went. Wagner sent Jackson to Fort Meyer's drug store for ergot and he obtained it. When he returned, all were excited. The girl was unconscious and it was determined to take her away. Wagner obtained the wagon. The body was put into it and all three got in the wagon. Wagner driving. On the Alexandria pike, they stopped, and carried the body where it was afterwards found.

Wagner thought the girl was dead and told Jackson to hold her head.

Then Wagner severed the head from the body and wrapped it up in the girl's cloak.

Walling carried the cloak to the wagon.

Jackson says that when he let go of the body, the head was at the top of the bank but fell forward.

Wagner let them out at Newport bridge. He and Walling went to Cincinnati and parted, Walling going to Hender's Hotel and Jackson to his room with the girl's satchel, which contained the clothing which he threw into the river. The blood inside the valise came from the sack worn by the girl which was put in it.

Wagner took the head with him.

WALLING'S STATEMENT.

Alonzo Walling's statement is that Jackson solicited him to help the girl out of the trouble into which she had been brought by Will Woods. He agreed to find some one that could perform the abortion. On January 27th, he wrote to one of his friends, May Smith, asking her for such information.

On January 28th he received a letter from her, advising him to see Dr. Wagner of Bellevue, saying that she had written Wagner to call at the college.

On the same day, Wagner called, inquired for Walling and agreed to perform the operation and gave his address.

That afternoon, Walling met Pearl Bryan at the corner of Fourth and Race streets and directed her how to go to Dr. Wagner.

On the next day, January 30th, Wagner asked him by mail to bring Pearl's clothes out to him, saying that she was under his care. He and Jackson took the clothes but did not go inside. The next evening, Friday, January 31st, he and Jackson went out to Wagner's.

Walling tells the same story as Jackson about Jackson's visit to the drug store, Pearl Bryan's unconsciousness and the trip to the country, ending with the decapitation.

Dr. Wagner, who is implicated by the Jackson and Walling confessions, formerly lived in Nicholasville, Ky., and is the son-in-law of William Hendren, a wealthy farmer.

Wagner formerly was a minister of the Reformed Church at Sulphur Well.

About the middle of January, 1896, Mrs. Wagner wrote to her brother, Walter, that her husband was losing his mind and asked him to come to Bellevue.

Hendren went and says that on the 23d of January, he took Wagner with him to the house of William Hendren near Nicholasville, until February 3d. This corresponds with the statement of the family when the Bellevue clew was first sprung near the time of the trial and which caused its collapse at that time.

Both Will Hang.

FRANFORT, Ky., March 19.—Jackson and Walling will both hang tomorrow.

The Governor has just ordered the troops into Newport. He told the Associated Press reporter that he would announce his decision this afternoon, and by a nod indicated that the decision would mean that both would hang.

THE BILL WITHDRAWN.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 19.—The retort discourteous was in evidence in the Assembly this morning.

Last night Jones withdrew Senate bill No. 314, which gave the Railroad Commissioners great powers over the corporations.

Jones said the bill was withdrawn at the request of Androus, the author.

Caminetti said that this was not so, and he and Jones indulged in personalities.

Cross said that Androus had requested the withdrawal of the bill and that Caminetti was present when the request was made.

It was decided by the House to request the Senate to return the bill.

IS IT BLANTHER?

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 19.—The local police authorities have received word from the police at Austin, Texas, that a man is under arrest there on suspicion of being Blanthor, the murderer of Mrs. Langfeldt, who was killed last May.

This is only one of forty arrests of supposedious Blanthers who have been subsequently released after detention in various cities of the continent, but Chief of Detectives Lees believes that the Austin captive may be the right man and has sent a detective there to identify him, with extradition papers, should the prisoner prove to be the right man.

COULD HANDLE THE FAIR

Much Enthusiastic Support Already Promised the Venture.

It Would Be Made as Successful as the Annual Oakland Exposition.

Already much enthusiasm has been shown over the prospect of holding a District Fair in this city next August.

The men who were anxious to obtain the State Fair for this city are just as enthusiastic over the District Fair and are unanimous in the hope that the Governor will sign the bill providing for the appropriation.

There are many good reasons why a big fair could be successfully held in Oakland and they were clearly outlined this morning by Craigie Sharp, the manager of the last exposition and the secretary of the Board of Trade.

"In the first place," he said, "we already have the organization necessary to conduct a successful show and this has already been proven. Although there would have to be new directors appointed to succeed the old board who have gone out of office, because of the expiring of their terms, there is no doubt Governor Budd will do this, should he sign the bill.

THE EXPOSITION.

"Of course, the District Fair would take the place of the Exposition. We have $5,000 on hand now and with the $10,000 appropriated by the Legislature we would easily acquire a sufficient block of land to erect a pavilion big enough for all purposes. The old buildings used for the Exposition would not be serviceable but there are plenty of sites near the center of the city that could be obtained. It would need to be a locality that could be reached for one carfare from all the cities around the bay. People would come in thousands from Alameda and Berkeley and East Oakland if they could do it on one carfare, but they would not pay more.

"I am confident that we could run a large fair and make it pay with the $10,000 as a basis."

WITCHER'S VIEWS.

President W. V. Witcher of the Merchants' Exchange is anxious to bring the Fair to Oakland. "Every member of the Exchange would like to see a big fair here," he said, "and I am confident that with the right man in charge the affair would be a marked success. The district includes San Francisco and Alameda Counties, but there is no place across the bay to hold the Fair and it is a foregone conclusion that it will be held in this city. The racing would be held at the new track and, as for the rest, that is all a matter to be arranged hereafter. One thing is certain and that is, that Oakland can handle a District Fair as successfully as any city in the State."

MR. KELLER'S VIEWS.

"When people move, money moves," said M. J. Keller, "and that is what we want. If we hold a first-class fair in this city, it will bring enormous crowds here and they increase business. We have shown that we can manage a successful show and the same principles followed out on a larger scale would produce proportionately greater results.

"I see no reason why we could not make a District Fair as imposing as the State Fair at Sacramento. I have never seen anything at Sacramento that we could not surpass and with the facilities of the new race-track, which Mr. Williams has placed at the disposal of the directors if necessary, there will be no difficulty in arranging all the details and having a successful show."

For several months past the dairy men near the prisoner's stamping grounds have been annoyed by the mysterious disappearance of their cows and though Silva and Valenzuela were suspected enough evidence could not be brought forward to warrant their their arrest.

Their downfall came with the theft of eight head of cattle from the herd of Dairyman H. M. Christiansen. The cows were stolen in the night and early next morning the officers were notified. They picked up the trail and followed it until they came upon the two men driving the stock towards San Jose.

OPPOSE THE SOCIAL.

Scandinaviar Preachers Do Not Like the Candy-Pull.

SUBJECT FULLY CONSIDERED.

The Practice Characterized as the Murder of Religious Work.

THE EFFECT OF ITS ABOLITION.

More Liberality Will Be Needed on the Part of Church Members.

The Scandinavian M. E. preachers held a very interesting session this morning. Rev. J. J. Gustafson acted as chairman. The preliminary prayer was led by Rev. O. Ericson. Two very able papers were read, the first by Rev. J. O. Wahlberg in Swedish entitled "Is it Biblican and Necessary to have Socials and Collect Money for the Church?"

The speaker opened his remarks by showing the different kinds of literary and musical entertainments, and pointed out the extremes in a programme which contained a sacred psalm and a sentimental love story.

VIEWS ON CANDY PULLS.

"As far as dime socials, candy pulls, etc., we have never arranged for them, nor patronized them in our church. Entertainments given for the purpose of collecting money are not Biblical. But, at the same time, there is nothing in the Bible about conferences, Christian Endeavor meetings, etc. We have no examples there that would guide us. But are these socials really necessary? We will answer another question first. What is their purpose? To support the church and to bring the young people into the church. And yet, after all expenses have been deducted, there are not many red cents left. And the more of this pleasure you give the young people the more they want. Are these entertainments really necessary? Not unless Christians make them necessary. The modern sentiment is that no one wants to give without getting something in return. This spoils the pleasure of giving, giving without return. The measure with which ye mete, shall it be measured unto you."

The clergyman present then entered into discussion on the merits of the paper.

THE DEBATE.

Rev. Anderson opened the debate. He thought that in view of the necessity for funds in paying debts, church entertainments would be necessary and could be so planned and arranged as not to leave injurious effects.

Rev. Andrews considered church socials as one of the murdering features of religion. And yet, he thought meetings of different kinds had Biblical sanction.

Rev. Boattstrom said that he feared the church social was often a means for drawing young people away from the church. He dwelt particularly on the freedom from all restraint in social intercourse prevailing at socials.

Rev. Dahlgren put the question, "would we have the socials if we did not need the money?" He recognized the necessity for using any honorable means for the payment of debts, and yet the liberality of members would obviate the necessity.

ONE OF THE GREATEST EVILS.

Rev. Ericson considered it one of the greatest evils in the church at the present time, and the reason for the lack of greater religious influence.

Rev. Gustafson expressed his disapproval of the social, as it hurts the spiritual life. "No one was ever converted at a church social," he said.

Rev. Mr. Larsen, the Norwegian minister, thought that as Christ was not too holy to break with sinners, "We should," he said, "not go to extremes in debarring certain people from socials."

Rev. M. Nelson believed in entertainments, but not in those given for the purpose of collecting funds. It should be a means to bring the members nearer each other.

Rev. Mr. Petersen thought socials should be a source of mutual intercourse between the churches. He thought there should be a good literary programme or a good concert, instead of mere empty talk.

Rev. Peterson said: "We must remember the reason why we must have socials. We go a little farther than we can afford. If we do away with the socials we have to depend on the liberality of members."

The discussion closed, and Rev. Wahlberg answered all objections. He said he did not object to any form of church entertainment with the exception of the social.

SCANDINAVIAN METHODISM.

Rev. C. J. Larsen was the author of the second paper, the subject of which was "The Future of Scandinavian Methodism in America," which he read in Norwegian.

He touched first on the importance of the subject to those engaged in the work among Scandinavians in America.

In regard to language, both the Scandinavian and English languages should be taught. The mighty stream of immigration has made our church a great necessity. It is reasonable that a Scandinavian church should be established among so many people.

He then spoke of the great blessing it is among the people, bringing comfort and consolation to the lonely and homesick.

"It has done much good," he continued, "in preserving the simple and upright life among the Scandinavians in America, for which their native countries are noted. It keeps those who have been saved in the old country, it teaches the language to those who are ignorant, and the old gospel in the new tongue.

"There has been a great change among our people in the last fifteen years. We have become Americanized. We learn the language with great facility. There is a decrease in immigration.

"There is a great tendency to use the English language in our Scandinavian papers and in our Sunday Schools."

The speaker then spoke of the many attractions in an American M. E. Church, which would tend to draw the young people from the Scandinavian churches.

"What can we do to maintain our church?" he asked. "We must teach our own language in the church, but yet not debar the English. Let them go hand in hand. We should have both English and Scandinavian literature. We need an interesting and instructive paper or magazine in the Swedish, Norwegian and Danish languages. And we ministers must pray and preach, must sacrifice all to God."

The discussion on this interesting paper was deferred until this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. M. Nelson preached in the afternoon.

CARSON, Nev., Mar. 19.—A light snow has been falling in Carson ever since daybreak this morning.

Nearly everybody who witnessed the great fight has left and there is no place in the country that is more dead than this place now.

THEATRICAL AMUSEMENTS.

"Shore Acres" Will Be Given at the Macdonough Next Week.

James A. Herne's successful play on American home life, "Shore Acres," with the author in his original creation of Nathanial Berry, will be given a costly scenic production at the Macdonough Theater Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Shore Acres is American to the core and its people are genuine New Englanders. The scenes set forth in this work show the daily life of a New England family on a Maine farm. There are nearly thirty characters introduced and nearly all of them are said to be distinct types taken from life. The scenery, properties, and in fact everything used in the production of Shore Acres will be the same as were used in the extended run of the play at Daly's Theater, New York.

THE OAKLAND.

The comedy season at the Oakland is proving an unqualified success, owing possibly to the public desire for the lighter and brighter material and the pains taking manner in which Lottie Williams, E. J. Heron and the entire company strive to please. This is particularly noticeable in Miss Williams and Mr. Heron, who respond readily to the repeated encores and even when tired from their efforts never decline to acknowledg the desire of their auditors.

FLOODS ALL OVER.

Levees Break In the South and Great Damage Is Done.

PICKING UP THE REFUGEES.

Railroad Traffic Is Stopped in Some of the Large Lines.

BRIDGES SWEPT BY FLOODS.

River-Side Communities Are Fleeing From Irresistable Tides.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 19.—Sensational rumors are afloat today as to the breaking of the levees above and below the city, causing serious damage to property and stock.

So far these reports have not been verified in full, but sufficient is known to warrant the statement that before nightfall an additional 200 square miles of territory will be submerged.

In the territory covered by the relief steamers appalling facts came to light this morning.

Drowning negroes are officially reported until the number now reaches almost half a hundred.

The relief committee thus far has ample funds to feed and clothe all the afflicted in the city.

Telegrams from points sixty-five miles south of this place ask for steamers to rescue people left by the last trip of the boats.

Two steamers were dispatched east and west and are expected to return at midnight with several hundreds of persons.

A dispatch from Washington authorized the government engineers to lend men to the further protection of life and property.

The river is still rising.

BREAKING LEVEES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 19.—The levee on the Mississippi fifty miles below Caruthersville, Mo., in the extreme southeastern part of the State, is reported broken and seventeen lives lost. Efforts are being made to verify the story.

The river continues to rise at Caruthersville, and the pressure on the levee is great. All the weak spots are being strengthened, but the work is handicapped by rain. Many families living on the river bank have abandoned their homes and taken refuge in Caruthersville.

A large amount of stock has been lost on the Tennessee side of the river, the entire bottom for miles being inundated. The levee near Cottonwood, about eight miles from Caruthersville, is expected to break and overflow that part of the country.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

YANKTON, S. D., March 19.—All the traffic on the Great Northern, the Milwaukee and the North Western roads has been suspended here owing to the high water and washouts of bridges and culverts.

IN WISCONSIN.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

RICHLAND CENTER, Wis., March 19.—The worst flood of years prevails here. The water is running through the streets, cellars are filled, sewers are overflowed. Teams and men are banking up the river which is rising fast. Mills and lumber yards are in great danger.

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., March 19.—The Black river is rising rapidly. The cellars and lowlands are flooded. Should the ice move in its present sound condition a great disaster will result.

WAITING FOR RELIEF.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MEMPHIS, March 19.—A family of six found a watery grave by the capsizing of a dug-out while making for the high land. Two were infants.

At the Memphis levee, half a mile from here is a congregation of negroes awaiting their turn for relief. No one is refused.

IN IOWA.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, March 19.—Every stream in this locality is out of its banks and the situation is hourly growing more serious.

Leeds, Springdad and Lynn, Sioux City suburbs, are flooded and the bottoms in the city are under water. Every bridge from Lamars to Sioux City is out. The Big Sioux is on the rampage. Its waters are reported five feet deep in Hawarden street. It is said that the Northwestern Road has lost every bridge between Huron and Hawarden.

The Milwaukee bridge here, across the Floyd will go soon.

The Missouri is reported breaking and gorging near Anawa but no change is yet observable here.

Trains on nearly all the roads are abandoned.

GOVERNMENT LOSES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Argument on the appeal from Judge Wheeler's decision in the action brought in the name of the United States against the Joint Traffic Association, which is alleged to be an illegal combination of railroad interests, formed for the purpose of defeating competition and for the pooling of traffic and earnings was continued today before Judges Wallace and Lacombe, in the Circuit Court of appeals.

At the conclusion of the arguments, the Judges conferred briefly. Then Judge Wallace announced that, in his opinion, the United States had no right to an injunction. The appeal was dismissed.

Wires Down.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 19.—All the telegraphic communication with New Orleans was cut off today. The floods are assumed to be the cause of the stoppage.

THE STEWART CASE.

Further hearing of the demurrers in the case of John Stewart vs. the Democratic County Central Committee was given before Judge Clift this afternoon. The case was finally taken under advisement.

AFTER THE DEFEAT.

Corbett Sets Out to Prove That He Is Anything But Dead.

RUMOR WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

Death of Father Maraschi, the Well Known Jesuit of San Francisco.

LAUNCHING OF GUNBOATS.

One Runs Afoul of the Other and Causes a Little Excitement.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO March 18—James J. Corbett, ex-champion of the world, rose bright and early this morning and ate a hearty breakfast in his private rooms at his hotel

He had slept soundly all night, having been under the influence of opiates administered by his physician

His face was pallid but he bore few marks of injury, and Jim said he felt fine

When the Associated Press representative told him that the report was current in the East that he was dead, Corbett was at first indignant, then laughed.

"Dead am I?" he asked, making a few passes at an imaginary antagonist I guess my friends will find I am very much alive

He referred to the rumor several times, and it was evident that it rankled

'Why, I will fight any man on earth any day in the week, this afternoon preferred, for $20 000 a side'

Corbett had intended resting quietly in his rooms today but after the rumors of his condition he decided to show himself on the streets this afternoon that his friends might see for themselves that he was not a corpse Then in the later hours of the morning he kept an appointment with a dentist who repaired a tooth broken by Fitzsimmons in yesterday's mill

Corbett says he has as yet no plans for the immediate future, but he still clings to the hope that Fitzsimmons will give him another chance to retrieve his shattered reputation

TWO BOATS LAUNCHED.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

SAN FRANCISCO March 18—Several thousand people witnessed the launching of the twin gunboats Marietta and Wheeling at the Union Iron Works today There was no hitch in the arrangements until after the vessels had slid off the ways The Wheeling did not gain so much momentum as the Marietta and dragged the latter in the basin careening her over to seemingly a dangerous degree

The Wheeling tilted to such an extent that those on board her rushed to her high side panic stricken There was no real danger, however and the Wheeling righted beautifully as soon as the Marietta drifted apart from her The Wheeling was christened by Miss Lucie Brown who broke a bottle of champagne over her bow while Miss Clifford More performed a similar office for the Marietta

SWALLOWED BY THE SEA.

A Steamer's Human Freight Scattered on the Bosom of the Deep.

Out of Eighty-Two, After Untold Suffering, Only Four Survive.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

NEW YORK, March 18—Of eighty-two persons comprising the passengers and crew of the steamer Ville De Nazaire which sailed from this port March 6th for Port au Prince, Hayti, only four are known to have survived the disaster which befell the craft a few hours later

These four passed through an experience such as fortunately has been the lot of but a few, seeing one after another of the thirty-one others who left the steamer in the large boat perish of exposure to cold or die of hunger, some suffering during seven days in which they drifted helplessly without sail or compass, pangs that drove them to madness before death came to their relief

Among the survivors is Senor Tagado, a San Domingoan, who was compelled to witness the death of his wife and his four children without being able to alleviate their sufferings.

What became of forty-four persons besides these mentioned above can only be surmised, although there is a remote possibility that one or more of the three boats in which they left the sinking steamer in the midst of a fierce storm off Cape Hatteras has been picked up by some sailing vessel

The Ville St Nazaire was a single screw, bark rigged steamer, 2640 tons register, owned by the Compagne Trans-Atlantic Generale The accident vividly recalls the fate of the same company's steamer Ville de Havre, which went down on November 23, 1873, with 226 people on board

The Ville de St Nazaire was commanded by Captain Jaquena, a sailor of experience and ability. Hard weather was experienced from the time the steamer left this port until the water began pouring into and over her, when it was determined to abandon her

The passengers and crew took four boats the fifth having been crushed in the attempt to lower it There had been no time to provision the boats. It was right in the midst of a fierce storm, the transfer was made

Captain Berri, the manager of the West Indian line of the Champagne Trans-Atlantic Generale, was one of the thirty five men who embarked in the larger of the boats and upon him devolved the command of that frail refuge of so many souls. He, Senor Tagado Lautz, the third engineer, and the ship's doctor, are the only ones surviving They were brought to Perth Amboy N J yesterday by the schooner Hilda which came upon them on March 14th as they were drifting at sea with the dead bodies of four of their fellow passengers in small boats.

The survivors were almost dead from starvation and exposure and too weak to relieve the small boat of the weight of the four corpses The four rescued men were brought to this city from Perth Amboy on the tug Idlewild last night Captain Berri is being attended to by Dr L Deplezze, who entertains doubts of his recovery and declares that he must have endured most terrible hardships.

CHANGING THE TARIFF.

Some Difference Regarding the Sugar and Molasses Schedule.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON Mar 18—The Ways and Means Committee today changed the sugar schedule to read as follows

Sugar not above number 16 Dutch standard in color dark bottoms, syrup of cane juice melada concentrated melada concentrated molasses testing by polariscope not above 75 degrees one per cent per pound and for every additional degree shown by polariscope three hundredths of one cent per pound additional and fractions of a degree in proportion and on sugar above number 16 Dutch standard, in color and all sugar which has gone through the process of refining, $01 875 per pound molasses testing above 40 degrees and not above 56 degrees, 3 cents per gallon

The original form of the schedule had the words 'or fractions of a degree' after 'for every additional degree' but the first clause mentioned is stricken out and the words 'and fractions of a degree in proportion' were added 'Molasses testing not above 56 degrees' was the original wording of the last two lines,

TURKEY ON THE STAGE.

Birds Kept on Ice All the Year to Be Eaten in "Shore Acres."

As everyone knows that has seen James A Herne's beautiful play "Shore Acres," excellent turkey dinner is served in the second act This dinner consists of a roast turkey cranberry sauce, boiled potatoes celery apple and mince pie cake, rolls and butter tea coffee and milk This dinner that is does not appreciate costs Mr Herne on an average a trifle over seven dollars at each performance, and as "Shore Acres" has been played over fifteen hundred time during the past four years by the two companies now touring the United States the actor has paid out seventeen thousand dollars for these real-life meals At certain seasons of the year it often became difficult to obtain these turkeys and they often have to be raised by telegraph and expressed to different points

There is a good storage warehouse in Illinois and another in Chicago that has arranged with Mr Herne to keep this troublesome bird on hand through out the entire season and they are ready at a moments notice to forward the "Shore Acres" turkey Late in the season it also becomes difficult to get good celery and then green onions are substituted just as they are often obliged to substitute cymbal nely for cranberry sauce The actors like the change The late Eugene Field was a warm personal friend of Mr Herne's and they often visited each other On one occasion Mr Field invited Mr Herne to a Sunday dinner as he wanted him to meet some of his Chicago friends It was during the winter and Mrs Field made special preparations for the event Everything went along nicely until they brought in a magnificent turkey, when all the guests all began to laugh most uproariously Mrs Field joined in the merriment as soon as she learned what they were laughing at Mr Herne dined that day on cold roast beef which he took in preference to roast turkey Mr Herne presents his charming play at the Macdonough Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, March 23d and 24th

BACK FROM THE FIGHT.

Oakland's Delegation Arrives From Carson City This Afternoon.

Much Money Placed on Corbett to Win Was Left Behind.

The Oakland delegation to Carson came home this afternoon on the special which arrived at 2 10 P. M. A number brought with them tickets marked, "Corbett, 50 to 35," but they are only souvenirs of the great battle If they ever are valuable as such, the delegation may realize considerable, for a good assortment is on hand.

There was some delay in the start en route, but the trip was a pleasant one.

Last night, in Carson, an Eastern sporting man was shot by a companion, after the fight. He died later, but the particulars were kept quiet.

The special which the Oaklanders took, was side-tracked within one block of the big Arena and this made the visit more agreeable, for the cars served as headquarters

Speaking of the fight, Charles Mautalen said:

"It was one of the greatest battles of the age and well worth seeing. There was a big crowd, though not as large as anticipated. I should judge that between 7,000 and 8,000 people were in attendance in all.

HAD THE FIGHT.

"Corbett had the fight all the way through Between the second and sixth rounds, he had Fitzsimmons at his mercy. They were both somewhat tired later on, but Corbett was up and coming. He probably thought he had Fitzsimmons in a worse fix than he did

"When the end came, Corbett was working hard to close his opponent's eyes He had him all but going, when Fitzsimmons came back with his double blow and settled matters.

"There is not the slightest question but that Corbett is by far the better man. Fitzsimmons won on a chance blow—practically the same one he gave Sharkey.

"There was but a small attendance at the other fights, for the wind came up cold and made sitting in the open arena disagreeable,

HAD A GOOD TIME,

"All the Oaklanders had a good time, though some of them did not come home with as much money as they expected to. In all, the trip was well worth taking and the fight could not have been a more scientific exhibition"

The Oakland delegation held off betting until the ring-side was reached Then Alex Hirshberg came from the ring with a 'straight tip" on Corbett at 50 to 35 The boys were quick to get their money up, and with one exception, all lost

George McDonald, of Engine Company No 1 was a Fitzsimmons man. He came home with winnings.

Going up on the train McDonald was roundly teased. He invited some friends into the diner to have some coffee, expecting to pay 25 cents a head The bill amounted to $4 20 for three cups of coffee and one small bottle of beer. He paid it and the others laughed,

The majority of the Oakland visitors secured 35 seats, but they did not stay there long An opening to the $40 chairs was observed and before the fight was in progress there were occupied.

The affair was not a financial success by any means The Eastern crowd was by far smaller than expected, though the West was strongly represented.

HYSTERICS IN COURT.

Lively Scene During the Examination of a Witness.

An hysterical woman and an irate husband made things lively for a few minutes in the Police Court this afternoon. It was the case of Chung Sing, charged with an attempted assault upon Mrs Eda Frank. Mrs. Frank was placed on the stand by the prosecution and told of Chung's delivering a parcel of laundried clothes at her house and of his subsequent assault. Hugh S Aldrich, appearing for Chung, cross-examined the woman, Mr. Aldrich tried to make his questions as delicate as possible, but the woman became quite nervous.

'Don't get excited," said Mr Aldrich, "I have no desire to question you more than is absolutely necessary."

"I can't help it" answered the woman and with that she went off into a violent fit of weeping.

The husband, who was present, made a loud protest against the questions. Things were becoming decidedly interesting when Judge Allen ordered the husband to take Mrs. Frank from the room

Mr Frank led her forcibly from the room, gruffly demanding to know why she cried Inside the witness room his influence reduced her violence to a tear-stained calm and in a few minutes she came back into the court room.

After a few more questions Mrs. Frank was excused. Officer Clark told of the arrest and the prosecution rested Aldrich asked for a dismissal on the ground that there was no evidence to show an attempted assault, and his motion was granted, but Chung was arrested immediately on a larger charge His bail was fixed at $100.

THE BONDS APPROVED.

The Board of Public Works held a special meeting this afternoon and approved the bonds of the San Francisco Bridge Company in relation to the repair of the Eighth street bridge

The bonds are in the sum of $2,500 and the sureties are J. McMullen and W. M. Healey.

Sent to the Asylum.

Leonard Williams, an old man who thinks he is possessed of great wealth, was sent to Utah this afternoon by Judge Hall Williams was rather dangerous, He would meet people on the street and try to borrow a small amount, If it were refused he would use his heavy cane viciously. M K. Hopton was one of those struck

The old man has no relatives in Oakland, but claims to be the father of Frank Williams of Chico.

A Good Climb

A crowd gathered in front of the Oakland Savings Bank this morning and watched a man climb the 20-feet-high flag staff on top of the building. The halyard had become unfastened. The man climbed dextrously to the top, repaired the break and slid down, cheered by the crowd.

OPPOSE FOREIGN TROOPS.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ATHENS, March 18.—According to persistent rumors circulating here Colonel Vassos, the commander of the Greek army of occupation, has been ordered to oppose the landing of foreign troops now on the way to Crete, This, however, may mean only the formal opposition as a protest against the action of the Powers, Advices from Arta on the Greek frontier, show that the privations of the Turks there are so great that some are deserting to the Greek camps, The Turks at Prevesa Epirus are arming in consequence of a conflict provoked by a Greek soldier belonging to the garrison at Actuim. The Turkish troops are occupying several posts on the Servian frontier. The batteries at Arta are being constructed under directions and plans of German officers. It is reported in military circles that the Russians are about to land troops on the coast of Macedonia. The news that the Servian army reserves are being mobilized is causing great anxiety to the Turkish military authorities in Salonica.

Under the terms of the will the executor takes all of the effects, real and personal, of the deceased and is empowered to carry on the business ventures until such time as the estate can be advantageously converted into cash. The money is then to be turned over to the widow who is made the sole heir.

The will was drawn in Oakland in 1876. T. J. Arnold, Perry Johnson, and J J Porter witnessed its execution.

The estate is valued at about $100,000,—of this amount $30,000 is in promissory notes, $ 5,000 in stock in various corporations and the remainder in real estate in Alameda County.

The Health Department has found a lot of spoiled condensed milk which was being sold at Levins' grocery store at Tenth and Washington streets. The stuff was being sold for 5 cents a can. It was manufactured by the Elgin Condensed Milk Company, of Elgin, Illinois. It will be confiscated.

When the officials searched the store this afternoon the milk was gone.

UP AMONG THE STUDENTS

Unusual Activity in the Region of the State University.

Facts and Features of a Very Interesting Character Detailed.

BERKELEY, March 19.—The Occident is adopting a continuous policy of "new journalism" until each issue is expected as a signal for fresh sensationalism in regard to co-education or the faculty. In the issue of yesterday two young women replied to the criticism of "Diogenes," on co-education two weeks ago, and gave him as "good as he sent." The "omniverous note-taking" was declared to be no more a characteristic of "co-eds" than of "eds," the number of young men going to college to pass away the time was claimed to be fully equal to the number of girls in a similar position, and if, as "Diogenes" claimed, the normal school was the place for prospective teachers, this would apply to young men preparing to teach, as well as the young women. The authors of the replies might rival Editor Hoffer himself in sarcasm.

The faculty in yesterday's Occident received a milder criticism than usual. This time their only fault is a too great modesty, a tendency to withdraw into their shells and to narrow University life down to the confines of North Hall recitation rooms.

The spring tennis tournament of the University will be held tomorrow in Oakland at the court on Madison street. The games will begin at 9:30, Gage, '97, Magee, '98, and Stone, '99, are acting as a committee to make arrangements and receive entries.

The University field day will be held tomorrow afternoon on the campus. An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged. The athletes in training, nearly fifty in number, will enter and there will be a few open events. The field day will furnish an excellent opportunity for a comparison with the records of the Stanford men. The poor showing of the freshmen "phenoms" in their contest with the Oakland High School last Saturday is encouraging to the Berkeley men. Birch, the boasted 10-second man, ran a hundred yards in 11 seconds. Morgan ran the low hurdles in 28¼ and the high in 17 seconds, and Kerrigan jumped 5 feet 8 inches.

A game between the University base ball team and the Alameda Alerts will be played Charter Day on the campus. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

Secretary McKowan of the faculty posted a notice of resolutions passed by the faculty in a meeting on March 9th, thanking the founders for the seven scholarships just founded, one by the students, one by the alumni, one by the faculty and four by the Regents. The scholarships will begin next term, and will be awarded by competitive examinations.

The Students' Co-operative Association will hold a meeting on April 9th in Stiles Hall. New officers and directors for the coming term will be chosen.

The final examinations will begin on April 26th this term and will last about ten days. On May 8th the seniors will hold their class day, and May 12th will be commencement day. The summer vacation of three months will begin then.

A banquet was tendered to Assemblyman Howard E. Wright last evening by the Good Government Club in Shattuck Hall. The affair was under the management of Prof. Haskell and J. L. Scotchler. Among the guests were President Kellogg, Prof. Joseph Le Conte, George H. Howison, E. W. Hilgard, M. E. Jaffa, A. C. Lawson, W. B. Rising, S. B. Christy, George C. Edwards, and W. W. Haskell, P. R. Boone, president of the Board of Education, J. W. Richards, president of the Town Trustees, J. L. Scotchler and Dr. Thos. Addison. The banquet was given in recognition of Mr. Wright's services in Sacramento, especially in behalf of the University tax bill.

Peter Corrigan, a Berkeley painter, was mixing turpentine and wax at his home on Ashby avenue, South Berkeley, yesterday afternoon when a slight explosion spilled some of the turpentine which took fire and slightly burned his hands and face. The wounds are not very serious.

A mass meeting of the Berkeley Populists will be held tonight in Sisterna Hall, West Berkeley. The issues of the local municipal campaign will be discussed by several able speakers.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Business men of Oakland and other outside places are hereby informed that the money they spend on circulars and folders for distribution through this town by being scattered on lawns and porches, is being thrown away. This community is not impressed with that sort of advertising. Householders generally get so mad over having to pick up and put away the litter from these devices that they wouldn't buy from the firms responsible for them if they otherwise had some inclination to do so. Business men of Alameda understand this fact and seldom offend by scattering printed leaves over the town.—Alameda Argus.

The total vote cast at the late municipal election in Oakland was 8,928, which, at the usual ratio of one voter to every five inhabitants, would give that city a population of 49,640. However, we believe a larger vote was polled at the November election than at the municipal election Monday. At any rate, Oakland ranks third in population of the cities in the State.—Napa Journal.

George W. Arper, vice president of the Oakland Merchants' Exchange, has had something sensible to say on the subject of keeping trade on this side of the bay. He declares, what everybody knows, that people will trade where they think they can do the best, and, other things being equal, where the shopping is most congenial. "What the merchants want to do," says Mr. Arper, "is to make it known that they have something to sell, and that it is to be sold cheaply, and then customers will come. People will not be coerced into buying here or anywhere else. . . . When the people learn that they can buy here as cheaply as in San Francisco there will be no more trouble on that score." That is the point exactly. Tradesmen on this side of the bay must establish the fact that as good goods can be purchased here as cheaply as in San Francisco, with nothing to complain of as to the service or delivery. Then they will not get all the trade, but they will get more than they have now. We have little doubt that this condition exists now to a greater extent than it is believed. Many residents of Alameda are unwarrantably prejudiced against home dealers, but the only way to overcome that is by disproving the charges, so often made, by actual transactions. No prohibitive license charge or other short cut will increase home trade. It is a perplexing condition, but one which must be met with wisdom and patience.—Alameda Argus.

WHEN GREEK MEETS TURK.

Some of the Elements to Be Considered in Event of War.

The Turkish army looks more formidable on paper than it is in reality; sixty battalions and so many batteries and squadrons of cavalry sound very well in description, but it is doubtful if any one of the battalions musters over 600 men and few can show even as many as that. The material of the artillery may be good as well as the gunners, but the region in which the hostilities would begin is not favorable to the movement of artillery other than mountain batteries, or of cavalry, the latter being the Turk's weak point. The report that a considerable Greek force is to assemble at Trikkala in northwest Thessaly, indicates an intention to block the Turkish communications between Macedonia and Epirus by the Metzovo Pass, which could be effected by the mountain levies supported by Greek regulars. Cut off from the main army in Macedonia the Turkish forces in the west would be in a perilous position, for the Greeks of Epirus, who certainly will have received arms from along the coast, would rise. The Tosks, the Albanian Mussulmans of Epirus long ago offered their allegiance to King George on condition of his acknowledging their autonomy and allowing himself to be crowned King of Epirus. No doubt that understanding holds good still. The Tosks are Greek speaking people and under their chief, the famous Ali of Tepedelen, the pasha of Jannina, prepare the way, by their revolt against the sultan at the end of the last century, for the Greek revolution that followed at the beginning of the present.

The Turkish administration has been no more favorable to the Mussulman Tosks than to the Christian Greeks, and the sympathy between the Turk and the Tosk is weakened by the fact that large numbers of the latter are Bektashis, or followers of Hadji Bektash, the founder of a kind of Mohammedan free thinkers. They are a quick, intelligent people, though uneducated, and do not, as do the Turks, allow their religion to override their material interests; in principle they are more in harmony with the Greek than with the Turk.

Whatever happens, the Turk will be fighting a losing battle. A complete victory over the Greeks would not assure the Sultan's hold over any of his territory in Europe west of Adrianople.

Mukhtar Pasha, the commander of the Turkish army in Armenia in the war of 1877-78, now Turkish commissioner in Egypt, shrewdly counselled the Sultan after the Congress of Berlin, to prepare to quit Europe by calling on all the Moslems left in Europe to migrate to Asia. In response to the command thousands of peasants and well to do Mussulman families left everything behind them and moved over to Asia, only to find every promise made them on the Sultan's behalf illusory. Thousands died of disease, want and starvation, and many survivors of those who had left Thessaly on its occupation by the Greeks returned to their homes, which the Greek Government had wisely kept open to them. These Mussulmans are now among the most loyal subjects of the King and wish to remain such. Mukhtar Pasha's advice was, however, applied only to the territories made independent or ceded to Greece and to the Balkan and Danubian States. Mukhtar himself was sent into honorable exile to Cairo for his unpalatable advice. The territory still under the banner of Islam will be held by force until taken by force. But much depends on the course of Bulgaria and Servia and of those who must necessarily be exercising a controlling influence over them.—New York Sun.

The British Plan For Crete.

Lord Salisbury's proposal for the settlement of the Cretan question will prove more acceptable to the majority of the Cretan people than to the militant party in Greece. To the latter, indeed, it will scarcely be at all acceptable. They want immediate and absolute annexation of Crete to Greece, and will be satisfied with nothing less. Nor is their desire unnatural or unjust. Crete ought to belong to Greece. But there is a serious obstacle in the way of the immediate fulfillment of that desire, namely, the determination of Germany and Russia that Crete shall not belong to Greece. Those two Powers would, if they could have their way, force Crete back under the unabated despotism of Turkey. Now let it be granted that Greece could take Crete, and could successfully defend Thessaly against the Turks, and indeed vanquish Turkey in a war, if left to herself. The fact remains that she would not be left to herself. Germany and Russia are actually preparing to take up arms against her in behalf of Turkey. To imagine that Greece could for a moment hold her ground against Germany, Russia and Turkey united is, of course, madness.

The British plan is a compromise and is probably the best that can be devised. It provides for the withdrawal of both the Greek and the Turkish troops from Crete, and the absolute autonomy of the island under a Governor appointed by the Powers. The island would still be nominally a part of the Turkish Empire, just as Bulgaria, Herzegovina, Bosnia, Samos and Egypt are, but it would be entirely free from Turkish rule of any kind, as they are. It would enjoy peace, prosperity, good government, justice. Its ultimate disposition would still be in doubt, but the conduct of Greece would have an important and perhaps a determining influence upon it. Thus Bulgaria, having placed itself under Russian tutelage, is doubtless destined to become a Russian province. Bosnia, Herzegovina and Novi-Bazar are under an Austrian Governor and will one day belong to Austria. Egypt will in like manner probably become British territory. If Greece, by discreet diplomacy, can get a Greek Prince appointed Governor of Crete, she will in course of time secure full possession of that island; and her best chance of getting such an appointment lies in her ready acquiescence in the demands of the Powers.

Lord Salisbury's proposal is clearly in the interest of Crete and of Greece, just as was his positive refusal last year to join in blockading the Cretan coast. It may be resented by the more hot headed of the Greeks, and will doubtless be branded by Anglophobes as a support of Turkey. The British Government is endeavoring to rid Crete at once of the horrors of domestic anarchy and of Turkish oppression, and at the same time to make a way for Greece to retire from her present position without humiliation. It is thus proving itself, as on former occasions, the best friend of the Greek race. That its plan will be accepted by the Powers is earnestly to be hoped; that it will be accepted by Greece is to be expected. For, if not, what will occur? Russia, Turkey and Germany will unite to crush Greece, and Greece will be crushed by them unless Great Britain, Italy and France come to her aid; and for them or any of them to do so would mean a general European war of stupendous magnitude. Of course, there is the alternative that Russia and Germany will back down and let Greece have her own way, but that is too improbable for consideration. Surely it is better for Greece to postpone the complete fulfillment of her desires than for her to be crushed by the Great Powers or than for there to be a general European war.—N. Y. Tribune.

UNION LABEL

FRIDAY.....MARCH 19, 1897.

Senator Hoar's resolution to limit debate in the Senate by introducing cloture a rule simply to shut off debate at a certain stage—does not find ready assent in that body. It has been the aim of many intelligent Senators to have some rule adopted by which discussion in the Senate could be brought to an end. Senator White of California has characterized the Senate rules as "silurian epigrams," and shafts of denunciation and ridicule have been hurled by other Senators at the obsolete regulations designed to encourage filibustering and rebellion, but so far without effect.

American steel rails are now in demand in nearly all parts of the world. The Philadelphia Times notes in that port the presence of an English Steamer of four thousand tons burden to take on a full cargo of steel rails and locomotives for Japan. English steamers have been employed in the same traffic before, with this difference, that they have taken their cargoes from English ports. This is the first American shipment of rails and locomotives for Japan. It is not the last, however, for two or three more steamers are already chartered to take cargoes of rails, locomotives and other machinery to Tokio by way of Cape Horn. It is cheaper to make the long voyage around the cape than to send the cargoes across the Continent by rail to San Francisco for shipment to Japan.

Book making has recently undergone a revolution, on the mechanical side of the business. The New York Times calls attention to the rapidity with which books can be turned out by the great public publishing houses. One of them recently took an order on Monday for a cloth-covered 12m. volume of 350 pages and actually shipped two thousand of them on Wednesday night. The type were all set (by machinery) before work stopped on Monday. Electro types were made that night, and the presses were running on the morning of the next day. The edition of ten thousand copies was all out of the way on Saturday night. Quite possibly the book was reviewed, read and forgotten before another week had passed, and the public was calling "Next." As the Turkish gentleman remarked in "Erewhon," "Whirr! Whirr! all my wheels, Whiz! Whiz! All by steam." He epitomized the hurry of our civilization thirty-five years ago. Since then we have increased the pace ten-fold, and "it is the pace that kills."

Ex-Senator Ingalls pleads necessity for becoming a prize fight reporter. When he left Kansas on his trip to Carson, he made the following declaration: "I suppose if I had gone into the hospital for political incurables after my defeat, and hung around Washington haunting the White House and the departments importuning friends for indorsements and begging for some place at home or abroad, where I could have been supported from the public treasury, my course would have been considered as dignified and in strict accordance with usage and precedent. Like everybody else in these hard times, I have suffered heavy losses in shrinkage of values and diminished income and am compelled to earn my living by daily toil. I am grateful for the opportunity of getting my bread by reputable employment upon the lyceum platform and in journalism, which affords reasonable compensation, with no sacrifice of personal independence. Employment in the public service is open to me, but I prefer freedom, even when accompanied by the fatigue of long journeys and the hardships and privations of travel, to the bondage and servitude of any position that does not come directly from the people. Benjamin Harrison writes for the Ladies' Home Journal, and I can conceive of no impropriety of my writing for the New York Journal, or any other periodical, upon any subject that does not require the sale of my opinions or the sacrifice of my individual judgment."

Hitting the Nail on the Head.

A more timely subject could not have been chosen than that taken up at the last meeting of the Merchants' Exchange. The question was how to improve the trade of the city. One member made the point that it is impossible to confie the trade to any particular location. "People will buy where they think they can get the best for their money. What the merchants would do is to make it known that they have something to sell, and that it is to be sold cheap and customers will come."

When John Wanamaker has something to sell he lets the community know it. His vast trade has been built up on advertising. What he had done in Philadelphia he was confident he could do in New York. He took his advertising plans with him, and has built up another great business in that city. In these last days business men who have anything to sell, must be in touch with the public. The best method of doing it has become an art. It is the live business world that achieves success in these last days.

Last Days of Spain in Cuba.

If there is any certainty about the reports which come from Spain, it is that the present condition cannot last much longer. It is admitted that Spain cannot borrow any more money and that there is not enough in the Treasury to maintain the struggle beyond the coming midsummer.

What will occur then? Will Spain withdraw and give up the island to the Cubans for a money consideration? But what could the Cubans do in the way of raising money? A rumor was in circulation that Spain would accept a hundred millions from the Cubans and quit. But the latter have very little money. They have raised considerable sums on bonds, all of which go to swell the Cuban debt in case of independence. If that were an assured fact, possibly other large sums might be obtained on similar securities.

There was a time when it seemed to many that the United States wanted Cuba. But there is no such public feeling now. Secretary Sherman has distinctly declared that this country wants nothing of Cuba but her trade. Not a dollar will be offered to buy the island. The Spanish Minister, having been told that Spain will be held to the strict observance of treaty rights, the former intimated that he might as well go home. It is evident that the relation of the Minister and Secretary will be a mere formal one.

While it is admitted that Spain will have no money to pay for military operations in Cuba after midsummer, there is no note of financial distress coming from the Cubans. They can hold out indefinitely. That is the present situation. It does not promise much for Spain. There will be a new turn of events in a few months. With money the struggle could be indefinitely prolonged. Without it the end is not far off.

Blockade and War.

It is assumed by some of the European correspondents that the blockade of Crete means war on the part of Greece. That is rather a strained inference. Crete is nominally a possession of Turkey. The European powers have decided that it shall remain such for the present, preparatory to giving complete autonomy to that island. The blockade of Crete is for the purpose of preventing further operations there on the part of Greece. The latter can make no headway against the allied fleets. Greece was given six days to abandon all operations in Crete, but paid no attention to the prescribed condition except to address a note of remonstrance to the Powers which has had a prodigious influence on public opinion in Europe. The time also named for the blockade to take effect has been extended, as if the Powers were averse to bringing on a crisis.

Greece must be well aware that the popular sympathy in Europe is on her side. Gladstone has voiced it in a pamphlet which addressed to the Duke of Westminister, was intended for the civilized world: "I do not believe it is the European people whose judgment will tolerate the punishment of Greece for the good deeds she recently performed. Certainly it will not be the French, who so largely contributed to the formation of the kingdom; nor will it be the Italians, who are so mindful of what their fathers have undergone; and, least of all, the English, who, if the road were open to them by the dissolution of Parliament, would show how they are minded by turning up a Parliament which, upon this question, would speak with unanimity."

Another Trial of Immigration.

The Lodge Immigration Bill which was passed by the last Congress, and was vetoed by President Cleveland, has been introduced for a new trial. There is a strong probability that it will pass by increased majorities. The Bill in most respects reflects public opinion touching the restrictions that ought to be imposed on immigration. The objections urged by President Cleveland did not satisfy the country. Practically, he was opposed to all restrictions.

A new House has assembled in Washington fresh from the people. There are also a number of new Senators, some taking their seats for the first time and others who have been re-elected. During the last general election there was not in any platform, so far as we could learn, a single declaration in favor of unrestricted immigration. There were many clear and emphatic declarations in favor of a limitation. What was public opinion at that time is public opinion now, a fact which is pretty sure to have a recognition in the present Congress and by President McKinley.

Of course there is a great deal of humbug about art criticism. Everybody knows that. This is well illustrated by a story told by the Westminister Gazette of how one of the paintings of Constable, the famous artist, was once rejected by the Hanging Committee of the Royal Academy, of which committee the artist was himself a member: By some accident one of Constable's landscapes, a small work, had been placed among the outsiders' pictures and was passed in its turn before the selecting committee. The first academician pooh-hooed it as too green, the second said it was empty and the verdict of the third was equally unfavorable. Constable, who came next, said not a word, but the remaining members of the committee were unanimous in condemning the picture, which was rejected. Directly the verdict was pronounced Constable rose from his seat and to the astonishment of the committee claimed the picture as his own. He thanked his fellow academicians with bitter politeness for their opinions, which, he said, were the more valuable because they were totally unbiased. The president, Sir Martin Arthur Shee, tried in vain to smooth matters over, and begged Constable to excuse the mistake and to allow the picture to be hung. But the indignant artist would not be mollified; the picture had been rejected by the committee, and nothing should induce him to exhibit it. He was as good as his word, and the rejected picture was removed the next day.

President David Starr Jordan circulates in the country extensively. A week ago he was set down for a lecture at Cornell University, going there from Washington to deliver a lecture on the fur seal. It may be a good plan sometimes for a University President to know from personal observation what is going on in the larger world.

Two Sources of University Life.

Some discussion has been going on of late touching the tendency to lessen the University spirit at Berkeley, because so many of the students reside out of that town. Only about eight hundred, or a little more than half the whole number have lodgings in Berkeley. The San Francisco contingent is a large one and a very large number reside in Oakland and Alameda.

What is presumably lacking in the university spirit is a closer fellowship and possibly a greater identity of interest with the University, which is found in some other institutions. In many of the older colleges and universities of the country by means of the dormitory system, students are enabled to make their homes for the greater part of four years in the institutions. They grow to them, so to speak. Nothing comes between them and the college save an occasional home feeling and a visit to it perhaps once a year.

But for anything that has been made apparent, university men who do not have the advantage of the dormitory system have just about as much loyalty to their own institution as do men who have their homes for four years in dormitories. There is of course a difference of opinion as to the real value of lodging students in colleges. The old system and the new one are contrasted with no great advantages of one over the other. Students who live at home have the advantage of home associations, and these in many instances will count for much. Others find homes in good families and have the refining influence which these offer.

The primary object in entering a college is to obtain a liberal education. If the student is in earnest every other consideration is subordinated to this one. The friendships that may be formed are valuable, but after all success in life will have little to do with these. Social considerations may give a richer color to student life. But the strongest feeling of loyalty to an institution is inspired by the real educational advantages which have been offered. Many a poor young man who has worked his way through college having few social advantages, and very little time to spend in college fraternities, finding his lodgings any where in town, will be as loyal to the institution and as staunch a friend to it in after years as if he had lodged within its walls, and had never had a moment's concern as to how he was to pay monthly bills.

This line of thought is suggested by an inclination on the part of some to disparage the real advantages of university life at Berkeley. The fact that there are no dormitories and that all the students must find lodgings in private houses is mildly deprecated. If these young men and women have temporary homes with good families, what have they lost that is not more than made good by more refining influences than are ever found in college dormitories? The society in Berkeley or Oakland which students may enter with the home life that is offered, is more than an equivalent in most instances for any thing that may be lost by a gregarious life in any educational institution.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The German Empress is the latest recruit to the royal army of cyclists.

"Madame Tussaud" paid Dr. Nansen $5,000 for the blubber soaked suit he wore when he met Mr. Jackson on the ice of Franz Josef Land.

Prince Henry of Orleans, who has started on an exploring expedition in Abyssinia, took with him a hand organ and a phonograph for the amusement of the natives.

The Duke of Fife keeps twelve suits going at the same time, and never wears the same suit of clothes twice in the same week.

A 2 year old child of William Priest of Windsor, Mo., was scared to death by a little neighbor girl appearing in the house with a hideous mask on. The child cried for eighteen hours successively and finally died.

Prof. Dyche never fails in his lectures to advise people to keep away from Alaska. The only thing he thinks there is any money in up there is the raising of foxes for their pelts on one of the small islands where they cannot get away.

Having worn the Vanderbilt pew in St. John's Church threadbare, Washington gossips are telling a new story about Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. They say she drove up to the new Corcoran art galleries the other day, and sent the footman to the door to inquire whether it was a "free day" or not. On learning that it was a "pay day" Mrs. Vanderbilt drove off.—New York Press.

There is an idea abroad that Mr. Chamberlain is the greatest amateur orchid grower in the world, but this is not the case, the collection of the Empress Frederick of Germany being worth nearly double that of Chamberlain—probably about $200,000.

EDITORIAL BONBONS.

"The season of fasting and McKinley are ushered in on the same day," notes the Chicago Journal, and hopes that this will not be an ill omen for the great army of unemployed.

Somebody has christened the new journalism "the yellow journalism." "Unfortunately for public decency," thinks the Rochester Herald, "it is read as well as yellow."

The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle is of the opinion that Weyler's recall following closely Mr. Cleveland's relegation to private citizenship will indicate Spain's full appreciation that the American Government is no longer to be run as a Spanish sideshow, and that a distinct change of policy in regard to American citizens in Cuba will now be for her own best interests.

Quoting from a young woman who now writes from the depths of a bitter experience, the Chicago Times-Herald says the curfew law merely calls the small boy off the street to pester his sister when she is trying to entertain company. If that charge can be substantiated the curfew law will have to go.

The X rays burn though you do not feel them at the time. Editorially, the Brooklyn Eagle illustrates this with a shocking case, which reads: "One victim of the exhibitions of the cathode ray apparatus in Baltimore has almost lost the use of his hand for a while. The skin has reddened and peeled, the arm is swollen and hot, the bones have become painful and thickened at the joints, the nails are falling out, and movement is difficult. It is to be known, however, that he let the light go through his flesh for four hours a day for three weeks, and his case is no inducement to stop the use of the rays for medical and surgical purposes."

The Springfield Republican has found one good quality in "new journalism." It is modeled after "set a thief to catch a thief," and runs: "That New York World interview with Mark Hanna, which we said yesterday would have to be given in haste if in advance of repudiation, is now found by the New York Journal to be a 'fake.' Mr. Hanna says he saw the World man, but would not talk with him—so says the Journal. It was a Journal Cuban fake which the World exposed on the previous day—we take the World's word for it. Set a fake newspaper to catch a newspaper fakir. The two exponents of the 'new journalism' are at least performing the public service of exposing each other."

SPICE.

He—Yes, we used to have a woman operator on the Board of Trade. She got on the wrong side of almost every squeeze.

She—I wonder why?

He—Oh, force of habit, I suppose.—Detroit Journal.

She—The Count, you know, can trace his family back 600 years.

He—Ah! Through the bankruptcy court records, I suppose.—Philadelphia North American.

"Yes," she said bitterly. "I must confess that he deceived me as to his habits."

"Does he drink, or gamble, or anything of that kind?" inquired the other.

"No; but before we were wed he led me to believe that he had a habit of talking in his sleep about all his doings. And he does not."—Indianapolis Journal.

Goodman—Well, Pat, how are you getting along?

Pat—Oi had a good day lasht Soonday, an' Oi made foive dollars.

Goodman—What! You broke the Sabbath?

Pat (apologetically)—Well, 'twas wan av us had it' be broke, do yez moind?—Puck.

Jones—Is Rich a very consistent man?

Brown—Consistent? Well, I should say so. You know he rose from very humble surroundings, and today he won't eat bread unless it's made from self raising flour.—New York Journal.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Chewing gum is productive of wrinkles. The incessant action of the jaws throws the mouth out of shape and must, sooner or later, bring out the wrinkles on the face. Tutti-frutti will take warning accordingly.

The all prevading bicycle has penetrated to the depths of Africa, greatly to the astonishment of the natives, who were at first inclined to regard it as a new species in the animal kingdom. They have now decided that it can be nothing less than witch craft which keeps the thing upright with a white man bestride it.

A wise and witty woman once remarked that there were three supreme follies of men that always both puzzled and amused her. The first was to climb trees and so shake fruit down, when if they would wait long enough the fruit would fall down itself. The second was going to war to kill each other, when if they would only wait they would die natural deaths. The third is that they should run after women when, if they did not do so, the woman would run after them.

Congressman Charles F. Sprague of Boston is probably the richest man who will sit in the Fifty-sixth Congress. He is but 40 years old, while his wife, who was a Miss Pratt of Brooklyn, Mass., is some years his junior. The joint wealth of this fortunate couple is estimated at 20 million dollars.

The London Lancet says the reason English smoking tobacco is so highly scented is because it is adulterated with the following substances: Orris root, Tonquin bean, juniper berries, coriander seeds, storax, cascarilla bark, angelica root, cinnamon blossoms, badiane, cloves, salitpeter, cassia, glycerine, licorice root, rosewood, sugar, bay leaves, walnut leaves, green oranges, oil of lemon, amber, vanilla, bergamot, nutmeg, balsams, cardamoms, cubebs, sassafras, galanga, calamus root, etc.

President McKinley intends to keep open house, and devote certain hours on certain days to the reception of Senators and Representatives of both parties who desire to see him, and he will consult freely with them on matters of legislation as well as patronage. He will return to the policy of President Arthur, who, more than any other President, recognized the rights of Senators and Representatives to name the officeholders in their districts and held them responsible for their character and conduct.

The anti-spitting crusade is spreading. Placards forbidding the operators from spitting on the floor hereafter were posted up in the main operating room of the Western Union Telegraph Company, St. Louis, Monday. The spittons were removed also. Finding themselves helpless the tobacco chewes then appealed for relief to the general superintendent at Chicago. He quickly turned them down, and said the rule must be enforced. It has been in vogue at the Western Union main office here for some time.

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE.

The Latest Plan Proposed for Raising Funds for its Relief.

It has been decided by the directors of the Woman's Exchange on Twelfth street to discard the plan of giving an entertainment after Lent, as it would involve too much work and expense, and instead arrange for a series of teas to be given at members' houses at intervals of two weeks.

The first tea will be given the first Wednesday or Thursday after Easter by Mrs. Sharon at her home on Franklin and Durant streets.

The next will be given by Mrs. Lohse, on Webster street.

Mrs. Randall of Piedmont will take charge of another gathering which will be a garden party.

The hour is set at 12 o'clock, and the afternoon will be made attractive with music and other features. An admission of 25 cents will be charged, but the teas will be invitational affairs.

About 200 guests will be received each afternoon. Light refreshments will also be served. At the next monthly meeting the first Wednesday in April, all arrangements will be completed.

At the last meeting several members expressed a wish to have a collector call for their monthly dues, thereby saving them the trouble of going to the Exchange with it. One of the consigners has been appointed collector, receiving a commission for her services. She began her work this week, and so far the new plan has proven satisfactory.

The Exchange is doing well at present, and new kinds of work, very attractive have been received.

QUARTERLY REPORTS.

Favorably Considered in the Classes of the High School.

Next week is the last week before the mid-term vacation in the schools.

In the High School the quarterly reports of the teachers relating to the standing of pupils will be sent out on Friday, and called in next week. The system of quarterly, instead of monthly reports, has been found very satisfactory, after a trial of a term and a half. The parents are better informed as to the work done by their sons and daughters in school.

It is contemplated to have a meeting of parents Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the High School building. Several teachers will give talks on matters pertaining to the school and the work.

The lunch room does fairly well. There are six tables, each seating sixteen persons in the large room in the basement. These are usually occupied at lunch time.

A Rally.

A '97 rally is to be held in the First Presbyterian Church of Berkeley this evening at 7:45 o'clock. Speakers from the '97 committee have been engaged and a very interesting evening is anticipated. Every one is cordially invited to be present.

The numberless inferior imitations prove conclusively that "Cracker-Jack" is all right. Insist upon getting the genuine article with the big R's on the package.

On the night of the famous Presidential election of 1876, John C. Reid, managing editor of the New York Times, was sitting at his desk feeling blue and despondent over the apparent defeat of Hayes. Just then a Western Union messenger boy entered with this telegram from W. H. Barnum, chairman of the Democratic National Committee: "Have you received any positive information about South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana?" He opened the yellow missive listlessly, but, as his eyes took in its contents, his manner instantly changed. Reid's mind acted quickly, and he argued: "If Barnum wants to know that, the is not sure himself. Without these three States Tilden cannot win. There is still a faint chance for Hayes. It was now 1 A. M., and Reid ordered the Times' forms held back. The leader was changed to show that the result was still in doubt, but that the chances favored Hayes. The Times' correspondents in South Carolina and Florida were wired at once to watch the count in those States very closely. Reid then rushed to the Fifth Avenue Hotel to consult with Zack Chandler and W. E. Chandler, the leading campaign managers. It was 3 A. M., and he found the Republican headquarters closed, everything dark and the two Chandlers in bed. They had given up two hours before, believing Tilden was elected. The present Senator Chandler was rouned out of bed and shown Barnum's significant telegram. He saw the point instantly. Reid and Chandler then went to Zack Chandler's room and woke up the old Michigan stalwart. At 4 A. M. the following memorable telegram was put on the wires and spread by the Associated Press to all parts of the country: "Hayes has 185 electoral votes and is elected. Z. Chandler." The rest is history.

A GOOD DELEGATION

The Alameda County Members Are Doing Splendid Work.

OAKLAND FIGHTS ON HAND

The Merchants Very Anxious About the License Measure.

DR. CROWLEY AND HIS SUCCESS

The Irrigation Funding Bill Is Sent to the Governor.

(Special correspondence of the Tribune)

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—The Alameda County delegation this session will go on record as the fighting members of the Legislature, for right up to the last moment they are waging a pitched battle in behalf of one of the many measures in which they have been interested.

This time it is a bill affecting the interests of the tradesmen of Oakland, who are considerably worked up over the matter, as will be seen by the following dispatch received today by Hart North:

"We respectfully ask you and through you the Alameda delegation to use your best efforts to defeat Senate amendment to Assembly bill 362.

"JAMES P. TAYLOR,
"President Board of Trade.
"W. V. WITCHER,
"President Merchants' Exchange."

The bill is a short one so it is given herewith. The part in parenthesis is the amendment objected to:

"No license shall hereafter be imposed upon any person soliciting orders for the sale of any article or articles manufactured or produced in this State (and who sells exclusively to the trade,) which under the constitution or laws of the United States, cannot be legally imposed upon a person or persons soliciting orders in this State for the sale of a similar article in a like manner, made or produced in any of the States of the United States. This section shall, in no manner, affect the right or power of counties or municipalities to impose licenses upon persons conducting regular places of business therein."

It will be no easy matter to do what the merchants ask, but it will be done for Frank Leavitt and the rest of the Oaklanders in the house intend to make it a special issue so there is no question about the result.

THE SALARY FIGHT.

In connection with one of the other bills from the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland, Judge Waymire is objecting very strongly to the attacks made on him about it. The measure is the one that permitted the garnisheing of the salaries of public officials and as will be remembered Judge Waymire opposed it.

"I did so,' 'he said to your correspondent tonight, "because I found after a careful examination of the statutes of other States that there was not a similar law anywhere in the Union. As there was no precedent, therefore, that was one point against it, for it is presumptive that if such an enactment were a wise one it would have been adopted long ago in one of the other States.

"Furthermore the law presumes that a public official receives just enough salary to enable him to maintain himself in a manner commensurate with the position he occupies. To expose him therefore to outside attacks would, from a strictly legal standpoint, mean that he would either have to quit his office or else pilfer and become dishonest.

"Another argument against the bill is that it was being warmly backed by the money lenders and warrant shavers of San Francisco, and everyone knows what that means. I had no personal interest in the matter at all but it was discussed several times in our Judiciary Committee and was always voted down. I do not see, therefore, why I should be subjected to the attacks made on me from Oakland and I think the merchants there who have been making the fight can meet the situation much better if instead of attempting legislation they don't give credit to those they think will not pay.

THE ROADMASTERS.

Assemblyman Clark of Niles is somewhat downcast tonight. He came to Sacramento with a pet project from his part of the county, and although he has done all in his power for it, it was knocked on the head today. Clark's hobby was to have roadmasters elected annually in their respective districts, thus taking the appointments away from the Supervisors.

The Assembly took to his ideas kindly enough, but the Senate objected and and the Conference Committee gave the project its conge. Had the provision carried there would have been elections each May all over the county in a manner similar to that in which the school trustees are selected.

AN IRRIGATION VICTORY.

Those interested in irrigation bonds will be pleased to learn that the funding bill has passed both branches of the Legislature and has gone to the Governor, who will undoubtedly sign it. From the important part it will play in the agricultural sections of the State the bill is unquestionably one of the most important passed this session.

It enables the taking up of all the present bonds and a re-issue at the rate of five per cent. The present bonds call for six per cent interest, but financiers would sooner take the new securities because they will run for about thirty years. At the end of twenty years five per cent of the bonds must be paid and five per cent annually thereafter, until the last payment is made.

The bill will enable a settlement of all the litigation over the bonds and will get out of the way all the unpaid judgments and warrants. The holders of the bonds will rejoice when the signature of the Governor finally makes the measure a law, for the way things are now they are confronted with a financial blockade over the old securities.

A TAXATION SCHEME.

Judge Waymire intends, during these closing days of the session, to rush through, if possible, his constitutional amendment in relation to revenue and taxation. It exempts in addition to what has heretofore been without taxation, all property used exclusively for charitable, religious and educational purposes, and also personal property of a value not to exceed $100 in the possession of each taxpayer.

It will be seen that the measure is very far-reaching, for not only will all the schools and charitable institutions of the State be off the tax rolls, but also everybody who has not got more than $100 worth of property. In San Francisco alone the personal property rolls show that there are 25,000 people who pay taxes on less than $100, and with this as a basis to work on, it is estimated that there are about 400,000 poor people in the State who are taxed.

It might at first be thought that such a measure would be impracticable, because it would cut off a large slice of the State's income. This, however, is not the case, as the records show. The total valuation of property in the State is about $1,200,000,000. The total value of all the educational property in the State, including Stanford University, is only $6,000,000. The total value of the religious property in the State is but $3,000,000, charitable institutions are assessed on about a million dollars' worth of property. The total therefore of all the property exempted by the measure is only $10,000,000 as follows:

Educational	$6,000,000
Religious	3,000,000
Charitable	1,000,000
Total	$10,000,000

Examination of the assessment rolls and estimates thereon show that by excluding from the list all holders of less than $100 worth of property about $40,000,000 would be struck off. The total reduction therefore would only be $50,000,000 out of the $1,200,000,000. This would cause a loss to the State of $60,000 annually, but as nearly one-half of the money collected from the poor people goes to defray the expenses incidental thereto the total loss annually to the State would be but $30,000—a mere bagatelle when the boon conferred on thousands of struggling families is considered.

LEAVITT'S GOOD WORK.

Assemblyman Frank Leavitt deserves a large percentage of the credit due for obtaining $10,000 for the district fair in Oakland. He handled the whole fight in the House, and it was a hard one, for Shanahan led a strong opposition that only wanted to allow $5,000. Some of the Alameda County men got alarmed and wanted Leavitt to accept the $5,000, as they were afraid he might lose an appropriation altogether, but with his usual grit, he refused to compromise. That he sized up the situation right was subsequently shown by the fact that the $10,000 was secured.

A petition is in circulation here asking the Governor to re-appoint W. M. Kent of Oakland as director of the District Association. Senator Denison is a hold-over and if Kent is named the Alamedans will be satisfied if the three other places go to Democrats.

A PLACE FOR MORGAN.

C. B. Morgan of Oakland will be named by the Governor as one of the three commissioners who during the next two years will examine all the automatic voting machines and report to the Legislature which is the best. The other two appointments will go to Democrats.

The Senate had amended the Assembly bill on the subject, which was introduced by North, so that the commission should consist of the State Board of Examiners, but the Assembly would not accept the amendment and the Senate receded.

THE PATRONAGE FIGHTS.

Captain Hackett's fight is still in an unsettled condition though the suspense will not be long. At 4:30 tomorrow (Friday) afternoon the Senate will caucus to decide the matter and also to dispose of the Harbor Commissionerships. As regards the last named places, the confirmation of Harney and Herold is now an established fact, for Stratton, who has been making Herold's fight, has nineteen votes pledged in caucus.

The chances have veered around a little more in Captain Hackett's favor during the past few hours and Senator Stratton, as chairman of the sub-committee, will report in his behalf. A battle royal will then take place and though many still predict a victory for Bohen, Captain Hackett will win if the votes line up the way he says they are promised to him. The Captain is conducting his own campaign and is not losing an opportunity that can help him along.

DR. CROWLEY'S SUCCESS.

As hinted in this correspondence yesterday, Dr. Crowley is to be a member of the State Board of Health. The Governor came to the conclusion today that the Oaklander would be both a good and popular man to appoint, so Secretary McCabe prepared the commission and the doctor will get it in a day or two.

Dr. Crowley may be well complimented for the hurricane fight he made for the place. He only got into the contest a few days before he came to Sacramento, and it is safe to say that much of his success is due to the favorable impression he created on his visit here. He made a friend of every one he met and they got down and worked for him with the good results announced today.

The position is one of eminence in the medical world, for the five members of the Board practically control the health affairs of the State. Only eminent practitioners are selected for the offices for they must be men who can not only be entrusted with the honor of the State, but who will make no mistakes in their professional opinions.

ANXIOUS CLAIMANTS.

Those who have claim and deficiency bills on file or in the Governor's hands are getting somewhat anxious over the statement semi-officially sent out from his office that he intends to do a good deal of slashing so as to keep the tax levy down. The indications now are that he will not act on any of the special appropriations until the general bill reaches his hands, so there are some very troublous hours in store for the claimants.

The Governor is not very pleased over the action of the Senate in cutting down his secret service allowance from $10,000 to $5,000. He says he needs every cent of the money annually for the special expenses of investigations, etc., he is obliged to conduct and that the operations of his office will be crippled if the reductions are made. Assemblyman Frank Leavitt has taken up the fight for the Governor and says he will have that $10,000 item restored before he gets through.

FOR WITNESSES.

A very important bill as regards witnesses will go to the Governor tomorrow. It is to prevent any person interested in an estate from testifying as to facts occurring before decedent's death, not only in an action upon a claim, but also in an action against an estate relating to the title to property in decedent's possession at the time of his death.

The same policy which closes the mouth of a surviving party to a transaction where a suit is upon a claim against an estate, would prevent his testifying as to facts constituting an alleged trust in property, because the elements of danger of fraud are equal in both cases.

OLDEST IN CHICAGO.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Mar. 19.—Adam Adamcek, a Pole, has just celebrated his 112th birthday. His wife is still living and is 87 years of age. Both are almost totally blind from old age, and yet their general health otherwise is remarkably good.

Adamicek is believed to be the oldest man in Chicago and as far as known the oldest in the United States. Until recently none but the parish priest and his Polish neighbors knew this remarkable story, although his habitation has stood in the stretch of muddy prairie near the railroad tracks for thirty years.

Adamcek's almost abnormally large head, his short stature and bent form, give to him a brownie like aspect. This is heightened by surprising activity.

His long grey hair straggles out from under a naked hat, and he wears a thin gray beard. For the last twelve years, ever since he passed the century milestone, Adamicek has remained within his muddy cabin. His muscles are not shrunken nor his form shriveled. Excepting the uncertainty with which his blindness gives to his walk, he steps firmly about the house and the palisaded enclosure.

The records in the Polish Bible showed that he was born at Minsk, near Warsaw, in 1785, but still there was a tendency to disbelieve his story.

Accordingly the priest of the Roman Catholic Church, who visited the old couple occasionally, wrote to the parish clerk for confirmation and found that the record in the Bible was correct. The old man is an inveterate snuff taker and has smoked nearly all his life. He has not been a total abstainer from liquors.

Adamicek's wife at 87 years, despite her partial blindness, is sprightly and well preserved. The old couple both believe they are far from life's end. Neither has been ill for years, and neither is at all tired of life.

GONE FOR GOOD.

Monuments That Marked the Death Place of President Garfield.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—The marble tablet that rested in the south wall of the ladies' waiting room of the Baltimore and Potomac River Railway depot, and the brass star placed in the tiled flooring of the apartment to mark for all time the spot on which President Garfield fell when assassinated, have been removed. A superstitious dread on the part of the traveling public of a constant reminder of a tragedy seems to have led to the removal of these monuments.

The immediate cause of the removal of the tablet and star was the fire which occurred in the depot on March 4th, which damaged the tablet to such an extent the officials declared it was not in a condition to be replaced. A portion of the marble tiling had also to be removed, and although the metal star placed where the President fell might have been put back in its old place it was permanently removed, and the spot is now marked only by a piece of red tiling, which would pass unnoticed except to those familiar with the place and the tragedy that was enacted there.

It is said that here has been much complaint on the part of the traveling public of having the horrors of the assassination constantly recalled to their mind when going through the depot and waiting for trains. To such an extent has this feeling prevailed that the company has long regarded the reminder of the tragedy as a disadvantage, and it is believed by many that the official were only too glad to have an excuse to obliterate the monuments.

GREEK PATRIOTISM.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ATHENS, 3 A. M., March 19.—The Greek Government has decided to recall the gunboats Phios and Pinos from Cretan waters.

The Cabinet was in session until 2 A. M. It is officially stated that only 1,500 out of the 65 000 in the army reserve men called out failed to respond, thus setting at rest the stories circulated of the wholesale failure to answer the call to arms.

A dispatch from Canea today says than an Austrian newspaperman, Herr Pinter, who recently visited the camp of Colonel Vassos, commander of the Greek army of occupation, has been arrested and detained under close guard. Vassos remains at Alikingu.

The Greek warships Nanarichos, Miaulis, have arrived at Piraeus with twelve prisoners captured during the recent attack which the Turks made upon Monondon Iri, near Platania.

Three emissaries of the Turkish legation at Athen have been arrested in the camp of Colonel Vassos.

An engagement is expected today at Menex on the frontier owing to the reinforcing of the Turkish garrison there.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

VINELAND, N. J., Mar. 19.—Twenty years ago Capt. Moses B. Lucas went away without telling any one where he was going. He was not heard from and it was supposed he was dead.

When he went away he left behind a wife and a daughter. They have continued to work the farm, which gave them support, ever since. To facilitate movement about the fields and barn yard, they donned many years ago a more fitting style of dress for that work than skirts. Since knickerbockers became fashionable they have modified their dress to knickerbockers.

He has suddenly returned and in a carriage was driven up to the door. Mrs. Lucas answered, and in a minute she and the stranger were clasped in each other's arms, the man being her long lost husband. Lucas is said to have become wealthy.

ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

Alameda Day in the Great Gathering Will Be July 13th

Representatives of the Oakland City Christian Endeavor Union, in charge of the plans for a floral fete during the visit of the Eastern Endeavorers in July, visited the general '97 committee in San Francisco last night and presented their plans and asked that Tuesday, July 13th, be designated as Alameda County Day.

The request was readily granted, Chas. F. Baker, who claimed to represent this county, being the only one to object. He thought it would be a bad precedent to set, as all the other counties would want a day.

The other members of the committee asserted that Alameda County was paying a just proportion of the convention expenses and deserved more than any other county. They will make an effort to have the date placed upon the programme, which is now in course of preparation in Boston, Mass.

The committee will attend the meeting of the Board of Trade this afternoon and make an effort to have the day officially recognized by that body.

At the next meeting of the Merchants' Exchange the committee expect to have the executive committee named and to be ready to ask that organization for recognition.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Minnie E. Mitchell, wife of M. J. Mitchell, the well known plumber, died at her home, 1058 Alice street, this morning. Mrs. Mitchell had lived in Oakland for some twelve years and had made many friends. She was born forty-two years ago in Pennsylvania. The funeral will be held at the family residence tomorrow, and the remains will be interred in Mountain View Cemetery.

Eleanor B. Carpenter died today at her home, 711 Fourteenth street. She was the wife of Dr. O. Carpenter, the dentist, and was 49 years of age. She came to this city from New York, her native State, eighteen years ago, and has resided here ever since. The funeral will be held at the late home next Monday, and the interment will take place in Mountain View Cemetery. Mrs. Carpenter leaves a host of friends to mourn her untimely end.

Judge Wood emphatically declares that he will make no effort to be reinstated in the Police Department where Judge Allen now rules, in accordance with Mayor Davie's order.

"Has Captain Thomas promised to reinstate you when he takes office?" was asked.

"No" emphatically answered the Judge. "Captain Thomas has made no promise of that nature and as far as I am aware there will be no change in my present position."

THE PALE HORSE AT LAST

Jockey Carter Once Rode to Victory in the American Derby.

The Jury's Theory as to How He Spurred at Length Into Eternity.

The inquest over the remains of Sam Carter, who shot himself in a saloon on Lower Broadway, as exclusively told in last evening's Tribune, was held this morning. The wife, brother, and a number of other witnesses were put on the stand, but none of them could assign any cause for the suicide other than despondency.

It had been intimated that recent trouble with his brother, Walter and his wife, spurred the man on to the mad deed, but careful questioning failed to bring out any such facts.

The verdict of the jury was that deceased had "died of a gun-shot wound, inflicted over the heart with suicidal intent."

At one time Carter was one of the best known jockeys in the United States. He rode the winner of the first American Derby and later won one of the first of the great futurity races. He rode for Haggin, "Lucky Baldwin and other noted horsemen before he took on too much weight.

The last few years he has been serving in the menial capacity of a trainer and but lately was discharged from the Oakland Track.

RICHNESS IN WOOD.

An Instructive Lecture by Prof. Lemmon at the Central School.

The boys of the four manual training classes were entertained and instructed yesterday afternoon by Prof. Lemmon in an address on "The Forest Endowment of California."

The lecture was given in the class room of Mr. Burckhalter, whose pupils were well prepared by their instruction in physical geography to receive it, and their practical experience with various woods under the shop instruction by Mr. Gleason made the lesson doubly valuable.

Maps of the continents, of North America and of California, were used, and specimens of cones covered the large experiment table, including some from classic Mt. Olympus, from the Andes and from the Sierras. The professor was given the closest attention and warmly applauded at the end. The boys will bear him in grateful remembrance.

"One of the greatest boons to America," he said, "comes from the expansion of the continents in the north temperate region, allowing the nations to emigrate and colonize on parallel lines."

The Ice Age was a destroyer of most plants and dispenser of the remainder.

The plants of Eurasia suffered more than those of the Americas, owing to oceans on the south, so few that were in the vicinity of the Isthmus of Suez escaping.

Plants of North America escaped into South America.

A thermal age followed. The effect was still more fatal to the plant world. Lateral ranges of mountains in Eurasia obstructed the return march of the floral columns north, but the longitudinal direction of the Rocky Mountains permitted their easy return. These conditions were favorable to the settlement of America by a great variety of flora.

The western trend of the Rocky Mountains obstructed the return of some plants bound for the great Mississippi Valley and sheared them off northwestward into the cul de sac formed by the Sierras and coast line of California. Hence, while on all the earth there are seventy-seven species of pines, thirty-four of them are in North America and twenty-five of these are on the Pacific Slope, eighteen being in California.

So, of other important trees, many large families were totally lost in the change from extreme cold to eternal heat. Other great phenomena conspired to render some species of trees in California's cul de sac of monstrous dimensions, e. g., the sequoias, the largest trees in all the world; the Douglas spruce, the largest spruce extant; the California red fir, the largest fir known.

Some four of our pines bore cones much heavier or much larger than were found elsewhere, being eight to ten pounds in weight and fifteen to twenty inches in length.

The values of certain California trees for lumber was pointed out, notably the sugar pine, yellow pine and redwood.

Returning to sources of this great endowment, the speaker entered Mr. Burckhalter's domain by referring to astronomy, mentioning the declaration by Sir James Ball that the ice and thermal ages were caused by differences of the earth's inclination on its axis, producing unequal length of seasons, summer and winter.

This perturbation is caused by planetary influence, principally that of Venus, with half as much by Jupiter. So they get a large number of cone bearing trees through the attraction, the affection of Venus for this earth, combined with certain configurations of coast lines and trend of mountain chains.

This matchless endowment was due also to the robust energy of the earth in hurling the great equatorial currents across the ocean, the great Kuro-siwa from Japan reaching California, where the State's northernmost boundary bulges out into the Pacific, and mingling its warm, moist atmosphere with the cold current that slips stealthily down the coast from Alaska, furnishes the fog and rain that clothes Del Norte, Humboldt and Mendocino in perpetual verdure, producing trees for the skies to rest upon.

The professor's voice was weak, but it grew stronger under enthusiasm, and the manifest interest of the audience, until all regretted that the time was so short.

The judicious use of a pure and wholesome stimulant is conducive to health. The famous old Jesse Moore Whiskey is absolutely pure.

COMMANDERS AT ODDS.

General Gomez Refuses Orders From His Superior Officers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A special to the Herald from Los Barracones District of Sancti Spiritus, says:

"Several times during the last year rumors were rife about misunderstandings between General Gomez and the Provincial Government of Cuba, arising from disputes over the right of supreme authority.

The truth about the matter has been carefully concealed and suppressed by the Cubans who are desirous of making it appear that all are working in perfect harmony.

Similar dissensions in the past have been the cause of disastrous civil wars in the South American Republics of Spanish origin.

When Gomez and Maceo left Camaguey to make their first grand march, carrying the revolution to the Western Provinces, the members of the Provincial Government remained in the East. Gomez accomplished the plan he had mapped out and returned to Puerto Principe Province in May last.

The circumstances that gave rise to their first misunderstanding are not generally understood, but it is supposed that Gomez, flushed with victory, after the invasion, tried to place himself in a position independent of the Government.

President Cisneros had sent various letters, ordering Gomez to report to him but they were not obeyed. Gomez expected the Government to come to see him, and the President, as the head of the Republic, naturally insisted on his subordinant obeying orders. Neither cared to yield and the result was that the two forces marched around the Province more than a month, trying to avoid a meeting. Several times they were within three miles of each other, but on receiving knowledge of the others' proximity, each promptly drew further away.

About the last of June, Gomez unconsciously encamped within a mile of San Anton, where President Cisneros and his Cabinet were quartered. Cisneros sent an officer with an order, requesting him to report, but instead of complying, Gomez immediately struck his camp and withdrew a distance of about six miles.

It is stated that the President, tiring of such conduct, then sent a very peremptory note ordering Gomez to present himself before him, which had the desired result.

Gomez came into camp with a band playing and banners flying. To all outward appearances, the reception on both sides was cordial, but after entering headquarters, the two chiefs were closeted together for a long time. What passed between them was carefully kept a secret.

It is learned, however, on competent authority, that President Cisneros reminded Gomez that although he was a Major General of the army, he must recognize the authority of the President as Commander-in-Chief, or tender his resignation.

Some of the causes that led to this firm stand on the part of Cisneros were that Gomez ignored all diplomas issued by the Government, not openly, as that would have caused considerable trouble, but by failing to appoint the holders to command.

Many of the officers returned and complained of their treatment, and as they were favorites their cases commanded attention. Another great cause of complaint and a very just one, was that Gomez was very harsh in his treatment of officers and men.

A KIDNAPPER KILLED.

Tried to Abduct a Child, but Is Met With Lead From Officers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 19.—A special from Houston, Texas, says: "Walter Hughes, carpenter and ex-employee of the Southern Pacific Railroad, met his death at the hands of Detectives Ellison and Proctor. Some time ago Hughes proposed to Sol Edel, a saloon keeper, to abduct the children of Berry W. Camp, a rich lawyer, and Frank Dunn a wealthy pawnbroker, and to demand from the fathers a ransom of $40,000. According to Edel's statement he did not give Hughes an answer, but informed Chief of Police Helm of the proposal which had been made to him. Under Helm's instructions, he pretended to accept the offer of Hughes and entered into the plot, maintaining communication with the officers. Messrs. Camp and Dunn, were informed of the plot.

Hughes, in order to carry out the plan, took a cottage near the Dunn mansion.

Everything being satisfactorily arranged last night, Hughes went to the Dunn residence, to steal the children. Guards had been placed over Dunn's house two weeks ago, and last night Detectives Ellison and Proctor were in waiting with shotguns.

They were discovered by Hughes, while he was trying to enter the building. Hughes fired two shots from a pistol at the officers, narrowly missing them, and they poured four loads of buckshot into his body, literally riddling it.

On his body, besides a large pistol, was found an immense knife and a bottle of chloroform. Hughes' wife was put under arrest, but no charges were made against her.

POETRY ABOVE ALL.

It Inspires Hope and at the Same Time Diffuses Beauty.

VIEWS OF REV. DR. ALGER.

The Wholesome and Morbid Elements in the Heavenly Muse.

FEATURES TO BE CULTIVATED.

The Interesting and Scholarly Lecture at the Ebell by Dr. Alger.

The Rev Dr Alger formerly of Boston now of Berkeley lectured last night at the Ebell society on "The Wholesome and Morbid Elements in Poetry and in Life"

The audience was quite large and showed its appreciation at the close of the lecture by a rising vote of thanks

"Happiness and peace of mind said the speaker, are diminishing quantities of today Our modern life is characterized by a hysteric nervousness. The same convulsive qualities have invaded our literature, in our new books, and for a beneficent antidote, for a pleasant relief we turn to the books of by-gone days—the old books, the old books! They are as real and as fresh as ever and seem to reflect something of the divine architect They do not teach nor preach, nor scold us into being good The new books are full of lust and obscenity

All higher fancies should be cultivated, joy admiration and aspiration All obstructions to this three-fold power should be shunned.

MISSION OF THE POET

"The mission of a poet is to supplement with his exceptional powers the defects of inferior beings It is three-fold to charm, to strengthen, and to please God sent sinners with songs of sadness and of mirth He whose ear is tuned aright will be understood,

"The test whether a poem is wholesome or not lies in its power to please console and strengthen to teach, to incite to action to soothe with proper serenity. If it fails to do that if it leads to no noble feelings yields no fresh strength no deeper trust in God but gives only pain whose cause is pain it is perverse, and should never have been written. We must have a safeguard against the latter kind and watch its influence on our mood A noble poem cleanses, enriches us, elevates our trust in God brings us with closer fellowship with man, and tides us over life's meaner cares We must shun all poetry that complains, and mirrors the spiritual diseases of its author.

In a word, that poetry is good which stimulates us to the completion of our destiny, and on the contrary that which impedes or obstructs is bad Literature is a record of what the best have experienced and have had the power to express artistically.

"This is given to only a few, but when by pure and permanent methods, they aim to warm man, to guide and instruct him they have aided him towards the fruition of his destiny But, whatever tends to mislead or dishearten man should be shunned and rejected"

MORBID POEMS.

The speaker then gave several examples of morbid poems The first was entitled "Solitude"

"Solitude is a feeling, said the speaker which all sensitive and affectionate beings are subject to They should guard against it by being cheerful and busy Inaction excessive self contemplation lead to morbidness The cure lies in the society of man of nature, of God who is ever near"

Dr Alger then read another poem, which had solitude for its theme also But the difference lay in the ones being a dim moralizing whine the other a breezy picture, tending to draw attention outward and arousing sympathy and is thus praiseworthy

One test of a wholesome poem is that it gives pleasure But I do not mean by that that it must give no pain, only it must not give useless pain There is too much of the hollow glittering style of poetry too much melodious slush Morbidness from this source is as prevalent as infections from a diseased body but great productions are rare We must chisel out the great It means toil to equal the greatest

MISSION OF POETRY.

"We should not read poetry passively but actively, to digest it properly absorbing the good and ejecting the bad

A poem should teach charity and placidity A poet is an apostle of charity but, if he stirs up contempt and hatred his pen becomes a weapon of evil The mission of poetry is to sweeten and ennoble life The poet who indulges in sneers and complaints is false to his mission Love is the fountain of charm and charm is the poet's alone A sound and genuine poet should neutralize evil But a poet whose work increases our antipathies and destroys our peace should be shunned The healthy poet is ordained a purveyor of delight The character of a poet's feelings determines his influence over his readers So of the readers—the prosperity of a jest lies in the ear of him who hears it The spontaneous reaction in our souls in reading a noble poem is a test of our character Intellects feeling more keenly the sorrows and evils of the world are more apt to become morbid As for example, Carlyle and Ruskin"

The speaker dwelt further on these examples and showed that there were three ways and only three, of escape First a heroic conservation of soul to its own perfection second by turning away from the world and seeking refuge in religion, third by flinging himself into the midst of the conflict which can be the only satisfactory method to a strong and noble nature Such a one cannot believe that any evils in a world created by God are unconquerable

"It belongs to the nobler poets, was the speakers closing thought, to inspire hope to diffuse beauty, to enkindle enthusiasm. There is nothing beyond poetry"

Our Merchant Marine.

In his inaugural address President McKinley declared that Congress ought to give prompt attention to the restoration of the American merchant marine once the pride of the seas in all the great ocean highways of commerce." He said that few subjects so imperatively demanded legislation and the aim should be to have American shipping sufficient for our entire carrying trade to foreign countries

It is evident that such an increase of our merchantmen would be a great task, and the natural inquiry is how it can be accomplished Rather attention was at once fixed on this striking passage in the address The President would presumably be among the very last to abrogate the registry laws designed for the fostering of American ship yards that date from the foundation of the republic and have endured to this day Assuming that free trade in ships is entirely out of the question some British critics have naturally looked to subsidies so much employed by their own and other European countries as the policy which Congress may be asked to establish But the London Standard declares that "however subsidized no marine can flourish on cargoes carried only one way while the News dispels the fear that Great Britain will cease to carry our goods for us by saying that the President's project is not exactly for today

It may not have occurred to many foreign observers that the President perhaps has in mind a revival of the system of discriminating duties in favor of products brought in American ships such as prevailed during all the early years of the republic and was established expressly to secure the building up of our mercantile marine —New York Sun (Ind Dem)

IT WAS A SUCCESS.

The Trebelli Concert Last Night Brought Out a Large Audience.

The concert last night given by Trebelli, Weiss and Miss Bowes at the First Congregational Church brought out a good sized and fashionable audience The affair from an artistic standpoint was a success, and the clever participants were frequently obliged to respond to hearty encores

Trebelli was at her best and she scored another hit Herr Arthur Weiss the noted cellist is certainly an artist far above the ordinary while Miss Carrie Bowes created a favorable impression on the piano forte

Beside the full programme as published in the Tribune the following encores were given A Scotch ballad Somebody, and the Laughing Song by Trebelli Spinning Song and Weiss Berceuse by Weiss and Godard Mazurka, by Miss Bowes,

Mortgage Sale of Homes See Laymance ad

I think I can look the meanest man in the country said a well known lawyer yesterday "He lives in the northern section of the city and is worth probably $10-000 No he's not a friend of mine merely an acquaintance I ran across him yesterday for the first time in months on a street car After exchanging the customary greetings he asked me if I'd paid my fare I hadn't and told him so Well, said he, 'give me your nickel I did so, expecting to see him hand the conductor a dime. To my surprise he passed up two exchange tickets instead You see he said in explanation 'I always buy an exchange when I pay a fare As I use the cars a good many times in a day I have quite a few tickets by night Wherever I can utilize one I am two cents in pocket, and in a case like this I am four cents ahead I put this money away and so far this season have bought myself a suit with the amount saved and my little girl has nearly $5 in her bank from this source' "—Philadelphia Record

A man might as well try to swim with a ball and chain on his ankles as to go through life weighted down with disease. He has no chance at all to win the race, if he keeps his head above water he is lucky The chances are he will be swamped.

Indigestion and constipation drag more people down than poverty They are as common as poverty and they are worse, because they cause poverty A sick man can't work Beside that, constipation causes nine-tenths of all the other diseases. It makes the blood foul and clogs up the whole system The liver has no chance to work The stomach has no power to digest food The whole human machinery is blocked by constipation

There have been all sorts of attempted cures for it but nothing has ever succeeded like Dr Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. The cure they make is natural and scientific and permanent They never act violently You don't become a slave to their use. Some druggists make a little more profit on "something else" Look out for that.

People would hardly ever need to be sick if they had Dr Pierce's thousand page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," always at hand. It explains the laws of hygiene; tells how to keep well and gives over two hundred prescriptions for curing common ailments without a doctor, It explains anatomy and physiology and gives more valuable information than any book of the kind ever printed

HOW THE NEWS CAME.

Half a Million Words of the Big Fight Sent From Carson.

The Western Union Built a New System and No One Was Disappointed.

Very few of the thousands who read the complete bulletins and telegraphic news furnished of the recent affair at Carson by the Tribune ever give a thought to the amount of foresight, judgment and hard work necessary to produce such results.

This is but one of thousands of papers that gave to assembled crowds the news of the great fight a few seconds after each blow was struck, each round completed. The Western Union Telegraph Company handled all this volume of business with a remarkable smoothness and not one of the papers had the slightest reason to record a kick.

The local manager, when asked to tell of some of the methods adopted by his company to insure such results said:

"When the location of the prize fight at Carson was announced, this company had but one wire to that point from Reno, thirty-one miles distant. In the six weeks that intervened between the time that Carson was selected and the date of the fight the Western Union Company strung eight wires at a cost of about $12,000. These wires, fitted with the multiplex and Wheatstone systems, gave a capacity of over 50,000 words an hour. The operating force at Carson, which usually consists of one office manager, who is also the operator, was increased to thirty of the most skillful manipulators of the telegraph key in our service. The cost of instrument and battery equipment brought the total expense to the Western Union Telegraph Company to over $20,000.

"Two wires were strung from the ring side to our main office at Carson, and there connected to the bulletin wire, which worked on the multiplex system, and sent the bulletins simultaneously East and West to the large relay office at Chicago and San Francisco, where they were recopied and distributed to our subscribers.

"On account of the large amount of money that was being wagered upon the result of the contest, a scheme was devised by certain parties to "tap" our bulletin wire and hold back the result of the fight long enough to enable the originators of the scheme to place "sure thing" bets upon the winner. Of this we were informed and arrangements were at once made to patrol the line to prevent the plan from being carried out.

"Mr. F. G. Dickinson, the operator who sent the bulletins from the ring side, was carefully selected, not only for his skill as a telegrapher, but also on account of his knowledge and experience in pugilistic matters, and his ability to describe in a graphic and terse manner the movements of the pugilists at the moment of their occurrence. Seated close to the ropes, with his hand upon the key, and keenly watching the fighters, he rapidly transmitted a running commentary upon each round so that a blow was scarcely struck before the announcement was flashed to the crowds in both Eastern and Western cities, who were congregated about bulletin boards.

"Representatives of some eighty newspapers were in attendance at Carson, and the amount of specials filed by them on March 17th descriptive of the fight, aggregated nearly half a million words, equivalent to 500 closely printed columns of a newspaper, and this vast amount of matter was promptly handled to the entire satisfaction of the papers to which the matter was addressed."

LIKE HYPNOTISM.

Habits That Appear Almost Hypnotic.

The tenacity with which some habits stick to people, or people stick to the habits, is very remarkable, particularly the tobacco and coffee habit.

People act almost as if they were in reality under a hypnotic spell. They promise themselves and friends time and again that they will leave off, when they find health forsaking them, but they make one excuse or another and keep on the dreary way as if guided by an unseen spirit of evil.

Physicians realize the uselessness of treating a patient for any of the multitude of nervous diseases so long as the poisonous alkaloids of tobacco and coffee are being taken into the system, even in minute doses.

It is a simple matter to break the coffee spell if the old food-drink, Postum Cereal Co. Ltd., of Battle Creek, Michigan, is used in its place. This is a fair simile of fine Mocha coffee in looks when brewed, and changes to the rich golden brown of old Java when cream is added. Being made wholly of grains intended by the Creator for man's subsistence, it makes red blood quickly and is fattening and nourishing. The muddy complexion disappears and in its place comes the clear skin of health with rich blood coursing back of it. Many people are sick and do not know that it is the insidious poison of coffee that prostrates stomach and liver and causes it. They laugh at first, but a trial of a week without coffee and using the food-drink Postum, makes one wake up to a great big live fact.

The children can sip from papa's or mamma's coffee cup, if it happens to contain Postum and their little bodies will grow round and fat under the nourishment of the pure grains, but it is a heartless proceeding to feed the tender bodies on coffee, as every one knows the puny, sickly looks of coffee drinking children.

Let people adopt healthful food and drink and "throw physic to the dogs."

"Just as good" is Postum Cereal are words used to defraud the public.

THE ENDEAVORERS.

Where Their Great Meeting in July Next Will Be Held.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the forthcoming convention of the Christian Endeavorers in San Francisco, make the following announcement:

The International Convention of the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor, which will meet in San Francisco, July 7th to 12th, next, has been sought for by California Endeavorers ever since 1892. They have, for many months, been engaged in the preparations, and are expecting great things of the convention when it comes. The fact that for at least three years past Endeavorers all over the land have been planning to come to California, together with the granting of a very low rate by the railroad companies, insures large delegations. The wonderful scenic features of California and her delightful climate, will certainly induce many persons to come merely for the trip. Conservative estimates place the number of visitors at from 15,000 to 25,000, and those figures may be exceeded.

The principal meeting places will be two in number—Mechanics' Pavilion and Woodward's Pavilion. The former is a mammoth building occupying all but a few feet of an entire block of land in the heart of the city. The interior of this hall is so spacious that it will be necessary to erect within it a smaller building for the accommodation of the convention meetings. This smaller building will seat from 7,500 to 10,000 persons, and will be completely shut in by sound-proof partitions. Outside the meeting hall will be built rooms for State headquarters, committee rooms, press rooms, etc.

Woodward's Pavilion, distant about ten minutes' easy walk from Mechanics' Pavilion, is an octagonal shaped building capable of seating 6,000 or 7,000 persons.

Both these pavilions are readily reached by means of the street cars from all portions of the city.

Besides these two buildings, a large number of churches and halls will be used for early morning prayer meetings, overflow meetings etc.

A different plan will be pursued this year with regard to headquarters. Owing to the great size of the Mechanics' Pavilion, all States will be assigned space there for headquarters, thus doing away with the use of churches for that purpose.

The music will be a feature of this, as of previous conventions. A chorus of several thousand voices is already in process of organization, and will soon begin work upon some of the world's masterpieces of sacred songs, as well as upon the familiar Christian Endeavor hymns. The members of the chorus will be drawn from the larger cities of the State as well as from San Francisco.

THEY WANT HELP.

There is a man and a woman in Oakland who are trying, by various means, to gain a livelihood from the benevolent associations. The man says his name is William Easton and the woman claims to be his wife. The woman who is a strong, lusty creature, recently appeared at the office of the Associated Charities and demanded assistance saying that her husband was sick and she was starving.

The superintendent of the Charities started out to investigate.

No sick husband was found at the address given by the woman, so word was left for Easton to appear at the Associated Charities' office the next morning.

Great was the superintendent's surprise when a man weighing at least 200 pounds and the picture of health, made his appearance and asked for aid. He was given work but soon relinquished his ob. The couple disappeared and were not seen for over a month, when the man suddenly reappeared, said his wife was dead and demanded work.

The next day the woman appeared, said her husband had disappeared and begged for assistance. The superintendent of the Charities is now trying to find the husband and induce him to support the wife, if it be true that he is really alive and his wife, contrary to his statement, is really not dead.

HOSPITAL CARES.

Many Minor Cases for the Surgeon's Needle and Knife.

J. McLain, aged 65 fell exhausted at Fourteenth and Broadway streets last evening and was taken to the Receiving Hospital. The old man's home is in Amador County and he intends walking to it as soon as he recovers.

Fred R. Moore a painter living at 415 Fourth street was accidentally shot in the heel last night by his revolver falling from the bureau. The ball was extracted at the Receiving Hospital. The wound was so slight that the patient left the hospital and attended a party.

William Smith, a young man formerly employed at Eliason's book store is lying at the Receiving Hospital suffering from dropsical troubles.

PRIZE-FIGHT PICTURES.

An Illinoisan Legislator Who Is Opposed to Their Production.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 19.—Representative W. O Lamonte, of Chicago, today introduced a bill in the Legislature with the emergency clause attached which will prohibit, if it becomes law, the reproduction of prize fight pictures, and fixes a severe penalty for violating it. Lamonte has had in mind such a measure ever since it was announced by the press that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight would be reproduced in this manner.

During the last three or four days, he received a large number of letters from business men and fathers advocating the passage of such a bill. The bill prohibits the exhibition, not only of pictures of prize fights, but any other act prohibited in the criminal code of this State.

FLOODS COMING.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The heavy rains of the past forty-eight hours in the central valleys will cause a continued rise in the Cumberland, the Tennessee, the lower Ohio and the Mississippi Rivers and intensify the threatened flood conditions previously announced.

It is probable that the floods in the lower Mississippi valley, during the next ten days or two weeks will in many places equal or exceed those of any previous year.

Additional warning is given to residents in the threatened districts in Louisiana, Arkansas and West Mississippi to remove from the region of danger.

MAY REVOLT.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LONDON, March 19.—A special from Galatz, Roumania, says it is announced there in police circles that a plot is being hatched among the Greeks in Constantinople, where 30,000 well armed Greeks live, to revolt against the government. There are a few Turkish troops now at Constantinople, except the Sultan's body guard and it would be impossible to hurriedly recall the troops from the Greek frontier in the event of revolt.

CONSULAR CHANGES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—General Draper of Massachusetts may yet go to Havana as Consul General to succeed General Fitzhugh Lee. He admits that President McKinley has solicited him to accept the appointment, and while he is averse to so doing, and has so expressed himself to the President, he does not feel like ignoring the President's wishes in the matter. This, it is said, means that if he is pressed he will accept.

In the event of this becoming General Lee's successor, it is said to be the purpose of the President to allow Minister Taylor to remain at Madrid for the time being.

It is the belief of the Administration that the Cuban question will be solved in a few months, and after it is settled an attempt will be made to have the Ministerships of Spain and Russia raised to Ambassadorships.

When this is done, if General Draper is persona grata to Spain, he may receive that appointment. If not, the Minister selected for Russia may be transferred and General Draper given the mission to St. Petersburg.

SOUTHERN CYCLONE.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

JACKSON, Miss., March 19.—A severe wind storm struck Jackson this morning at 6 o'clock, coming from the southwest, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. As far as known there has been no loss of life, although heavy trees were blown up by roots, houses unroofed, fences and out buildings destroyed and signs blown away.

Jackson is entirely isolated in the matter of telegraphic communication and, on that account nothing can be heard from the surrounding country. It is probable that serious damage has been done. It is reported from Glendale, Miss., that the levee has broken there and that Lake Tchula has risen four feet. It is reported from Raymond, Miss., that property at Cooper's Wells, a summer resort near there, has been considerably damaged by the cyclone.

BOTH CONFESS.

Walling and Jackson Tell of the Butchery of Pearl Bryan.

BOTH STORIES COINCIDE.

Tried to Shield Another Criminal in the Case.

THE ACTIONS OF A DOCTOR.

Murderers Will Mount the Scaffold Tomorrow Without Fail

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—Both the Enquirer and the Commercial Tribune print today, confessions by Scott Jackson and Alonzo M. Walling, signed respectively by their authors. The text of these confessions is copyrighted.

Jackson lays the blame for the condition of Pearl Bryan on William F. Wood who, he says, solicited him by letter to give her relief from disgrace for his sake. He engaged Walling to find some one who would perform a delicate task. Wednesday, January 20th, Walling told him that he had sent Miss Bryan to a doctor. Thursday Walling received word to go out to Dr. Wagner's at Bellevue, Ky., near Newport. He and Walling, both went out. They arranged to be there again Friday night, January 21st. They both went. Wagner sent Jackson to Fort Meyer's drug store for ergot and he obtained it. When he returned, all were excited. The girl was unconscious and it was determined to take her away. Wagner obtained the wagon. The body was put into it and all three got in the wagon. Wagner driving. On the Alexandria pike, they stopped, and carried the body where it was afterwards found.

Wagner thought the girl was dead and told Jackson to hold her head.

Then Wagner severed the head from the body and wrapped it up in the girl's cloak.

Walling carried the cloak to the wagon.

Jackson says that when he let go of the body, the head was at the top of the bank but fell forward.

Wagner let them out at Newport bridge. He and Walling went to Cincinnati and parted, Walling going to Hender's Hotel and Jackson to his room with the girl's satchel, which contained the clothing which he threw into the river. The blood inside the valise came from the sack worn by the girl which was put in it.

Wagner took the head with him.

WALLING'S STATEMENT.

Alonzo Walling's statement is that Jackson solicited him to help the girl out of the trouble into which she had been brought by Will Woods. He agreed to find some one that could perform the abortion. On January 27th, he wrote to one of his friends, May Smith, asking her for such information.

On January 28th he received a letter from her, advising him to see Dr. Wagner of Bellevue, saying that she had written Wagner to call at the college.

On the same day, Wagner called, inquired for Walling and agreed to perform the operation and gave his address.

That afternoon, Walling met Pearl Bryan at the corner of Fourth and Race streets and directed her how to go to Dr. Wagner.

On the next day, January 30th, Wagner asked him by mail to bring Pearl's clothes out to him, saying that she was under his care. He and Jackson took the clothes but did not go inside. The next evening, Friday, January 31st, he and Jackson went out to Wagner's.

Walling tells the same story as Jackson about Jackson's visit to the drug store, Pearl Bryan's unconsciousness and the trip to the country, ending with the decapitation.

Dr. Wagner, who is implicated by the Jackson and Walling confessions, formerly lived in Nicholasville, Ky., and is the son-in-law of William Hendren, a wealthy farmer.

Wagner formerly was a minister of the Reformed Church at Sulphur Well.

About the middle of January, 1896, Mrs. Wagner wrote to her brother, Walter, that her husband was losing his mind and asked him to come to Bellevue.

Hendren went and says that on the 23d of January, he took Wagner with him to the house of William Hendren near Nicholasville, until February 3d. This corresponds with the statement of the family when the Bellevue crew was first sprung near the time of the trial and which caused its collapse at that time.

Both Will Hang.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

FRANFORT, Ky., March 19.—Jackson and Walling will both hang tomorrow.

The Governor has just ordered the troops into Newport. He told the Associated Press reporter that he would announce his decision this afternoon, and by a nod indicated that the decision would mean that both would hang.

THE BILL WITHDRAWN.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 19.—The retort discourteous was in evidence in the Assembly this morning.

Last night Jones withdrew Senate bill No. 314, which gave the Railroad Commissioners great powers over the corporations.

Jones said the bill was withdrawn at the request of Androus, the author.

Caminetti said that this was not so, and he and Jones indulged in personalities.

Crose said that Androus had requested the withdrawal of the bill and that Caminetti was present when the request was made.

It was decided by the House to request the Senate to return the bill.

COYOTE SCALP BILL.

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—The Senate today defeated the Coyote Scalp County Bill by a vote of 19 ayes to 18 nays.

IS IT BLANTHER?

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 19.—The local police authorities have received word from the police at Austin, Texas, that a man is under arrest there on suspicion of being Blanthor, the murderer of Mrs. Langfeldt, who was killed last May.

This is only one of forty arrests of suppositious Blanthers who have been subsequently released after detention in various cities of the continent, but Chief of Detectives Lees believes that the Austin captive may be the right man and has sent a detective there to identify him, with extradition papers, should the prisoner prove to be the right man.

COULD HANDLE THE FAIR

Much Enthusiastic Support Already Promised the Venture.

It Would Be Made as Successful as the Annual Oakland Exposition.

Already much enthusiasm has been shown over the prospect of holding a District Fair in this city next August.

The men who were anxious to obtain the State Fair for this city are just as enthusiastic over the District Fair and are unanimous in the hope that the Governor will sign the bill providing for the appropriation.

There are many good reasons why a big fair could be successfully held in Oakland and they were clearly outlined this morning by Craigie Sharp, the manager of the last exposition and the secretary of the Board of Trade.

"In the first place," he said, "we already have the organization necessary to conduct a successful show and this has already been proven. Although there would have to be new directors appointed to succeed the old board who have gone out of office, because of the expiring of their terms, there is no doubt Governor Budd will do this, should he sign the bill.

THE EXPOSITION.

"Of course, the District Fair would take the place of the Exposition. We have $5,000 on hand now and with the $10,000 appropriated by the Legislature we would easily acquire a sufficient block of land to erect a pavilion big enough for all purposes. The old buildings used for the Exposition would not be serviceable but there are plenty of sites near the center of the city that could be obtained. It would need to be a locality that could be reached for one carfare from all the cities around the bay. People would come in thousands from Alameda and Berkeley and East Oakland if they could do it on one carfare, but they would not pay more.

"I am confident that we could run a large fair and make it pay with the $10,000 as a basis."

WITCHER'S VIEWS.

President W. V. Witcher of the Merchants' Exchange is anxious to bring the Fair to Oakland. "Every member of the Exchange would like to see a big fair here," he said, "and I am confident that with the right man in charge the affair would be a marked success. The district includes San Francisco and Alameda Counties, but there is no place across the bay to hold the Fair and it is a foregone conclusion that it will be held in this city. The racing would be held at the new track and, as for the rest, that is all a matter to be arranged hereafter. One thing is certain and that is, that Oakland can handle a District Fair as successfully as any city in the State."

MR. KELLER'S VIEWS.

"When people move, money moves," said M. J. Keller, "and that is what we want. If we hold a first-class fair in this city, it will bring enormous crowds here and they increase business. We have shown that we can manage a successful show and the same principles followed out on a larger scale would produce proportionately greater results.

"I see no reason why we could not make a District Fair as imposing as the State Fair at Sacramento. I have never seen anything at Sacramento that we could not surpass and with the facilities of the new race-track, which Mr. Williams has placed at the disposal of the directors if necessary, there will be no difficulty in arranging all the details and having a successful show."

Werren strenuously denied to the officer that he had tried to avoid service of the writ and attributes Heller's failure to find him to a lack of patience. He declares that he had spent every night at his domicile but admits that his wife and grand-niece are in San Francisco.

For several months past the dairy men near the prisoner's stamping grounds have been annoyed by the mysterious disappearance of their cows and though Silva and Valenzuela were suspected enough evidence could not be brought forward to warrant their their arrest.

Their downfall came with the theft of eight head of cattle from the herd of Dairyman H. M. Christiansen. The cows were stolen in the night and early next morning the officers were notified. They picked up the trail and followed it until they came upon the two men driving the stock towards San Jose.

OPPOSE THE SOCIAL.

Scandinavian Preachers Do Not Like the Candy-Pull.

SUBJECT FULLY CONSIDERED.

The Practice Characterized as the Murder of Religious Work.

THE EFFECT OF ITS ABOLITION.

More Liberality Will Be Needed on the Part of Church Members.

The Scandinavian M. E. preachers held a very interesting session this morning. Rev. A. J. Gustafson acted as chairman. The preliminary prayer was led by Rev. C. Ericson. Two very able papers were read, the first by Rev. J. O. Wahlberg in Swedish entitled "Is it Biblican and Necessary to have Socials and Collect Money for the Church?"

The speaker opened his remarks by showing the different kinds of literary and musical entertainments, and pointed out the extremes in a programme which contained a sacred psalm and a sentimental love story.

VIEWS ON CANDY PULLS.

"As far as dime socials, candy pulls, etc., we have never arranged for them, nor patronized them in our church. Entertainments given for the purpose of collecting money are not Biblical. But, at the same time, there is nothing in the Bible about conferences, Christian Endeavor meetings, etc. We have no examples there that would guide us. But are these socials really necessary? We will answer another question first. What is their purpose? To support the church and to bring the young people into the church. And yet, after all expenses have been deducted, there are not many red cents left. And the more of this pleasure you give the young people the more they want. Are these entertainments really necessary? Not unless Christians make them necessary. The modern sentiment is that no one wants to give without getting something in return. This spoils the pleasure of giving, giving without return. The measure with which ye mete, shall it be measured unto you."

The clergyman present then entered into discussion on the merits of the paper.

THE DEBATE.

Rev. Anderson opened the debate. He thought that in view of the necessity for funds in paying debts, church entertainments would be necessary and could be so planned and arranged as not to leave injurious effects.

Rev. Andrews considered church socials as one of the murdering features of religion. And yet, he thought meetings of different kinds had Biblical sanction.

Rev. Boattstrom said that he feared the church social was often a means for drawing young people away from the church. He dwelt particularly on the freedom from all restraint in social intercourse prevailing at socials.

Rev. Dahlgren put the question, "would we have the socials if we did not need the money?" He recognized the necessity for using any honorable means for the payment of debts, and yet the liberality of members would obviate the necessity.

ONE OF THE GREATEST EVILS.

Rev. Ericson considered it one of the greatest evils in the church at the present time, and the reason for the lack of greater religious influence.

Rev. Gustafson expressed his disapproval of the social, as it hurts the spiritual life. "No one was ever converted at a church social," he said.

Rev. Mr. Larsen, the Norwegian minister, thought that as Christ was not too holy to break with sinners, "We should," he said, "not go to extremes in debarring certain people from socials."

Rev. M. Nelson believed in entertainments, but not in those given for the purpose of collecting funds. It should be a means to bring the members nearer each other.

Rev. Mr. Petersen thought socials should be a source of mutual intercourse between the churches. He thought there should be a good literary programme or a good concert, instead of mere empty talk.

Rev. Peterson said: "We must remember the reason why we must have socials. We go a little farther than we can afford. If we do away with the socials we have to depend on the liberality of members."

The discussion closed, and Rev. Wahlberg answered all objections. He said he did not object to any form of church entertainment with the exception of the social.

SCANDINAVIAN METHODISM.

Rev. C. J. Larsen was the author of the second paper, the subject of which was "The Future of Scandinavian Methodism in America," which he read in Norwegian.

He touched first on the importance of the subject to those engaged in the work among Scandinavians in America.

In regard to language, both the Scandinavian and English languages should be taught. The mighty stream of immigration has made our church a great necessity. It is reasonable that a Scandinavian church should be established among so many people.

He then spoke of the great blessing it is among the people, bringing comfort and consolation to the lonely and homesick.

"It has done much good," he continued, "in preserving the simple and upright life among the Scandinavians in America, for which their native countries are noted. It keeps those who have been saved in the old country, it teaches the language to those who are ignorant, and the old gospel in the new tongue.

"There has been a great change among our people in the last fifteen years. We have become Americanized. We learn the language with great facility. There is a decrease in immigration.

"There is a greater tendency to use the English language in our Scandinavian papers and in our Sunday Schools."

The speaker then spoke of the many attractions in an American M. E. Church, which would tend to draw the young people thither, away from the Scandinavian churches.

"What can we do to maintain our church?" he asked. "We must teach our own language in the church, but yet not debar the English. Let them go hand in hand. We should have both English and Scandinavian literature. We need an interesting and instructive paper or magazine in the Swedish, Norwegian and Danish languages. And we ministers must pray and preach, must sacrifice all to God."

The discussion on this interesting paper was deferred until this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. M. Nelson preached in the afternoon.

THEATRICAL AMUSEMENTS.

"Shore Acres" Will Be Given at the Macdonough Next Week.

James A. Herne's successful play on American home life, "Shore Acres," with the author in his original creation of Nathanial Berry, will be given a costly scenic production at the Macdonough Theater Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Shore Acres is American to the core and its people are genuine New Englanders. The scenes set forth in this work show the daily life of a New England family on a Maine farm. There are nearly thirty characters introduced and nearly all of them are said to be distinct types taken from life. The scenery, properties, and in fact everything used in the production of Shore Acres will be the same as were used in the extended run of the play at Daly's Theater, New York.

THE OAKLAND.

The comedy season at the Oakland is proving an unqualified success, owing possibly to the public desire for the lighter and brighter material and the pains taking manner in which Lottie Williams, E. J. Heron and the entire company strive to please. This is particularly noticeable in Miss Williams and Mr. Heron, who respond readily to the repeated encores and even when tired from their efforts never decline to acknowledg the desire of their auditors.

FLOODS ALL OVER.

Levees Break In the South and Great Damage Is Done.

PICKING UP THE REFUGEES.

Railroad Traffic Is Stopped in Some of the Large Lines.

BRIDGES SWEPT BY FLOODS.

River-Side Communities Are Fleeing From Irresistable Tides.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 19.—Sensational rumors are afloat today as to the breaking of the levees above and below the city, causing serious damage to property and stock.

So far these reports have not been verified in full, but sufficient is known to warrant the statement that before nightfall an additional 200 square miles of territory will be submerged.

In the territory covered by the relief steamers appalling facts came to light this morning.

Drowning negroes are officially reported until the number now reaches almost half a hundred.

The relief committee thus far has ample funds to feed and clothe all the afflicted in the city.

Telegrams from points sixty-five miles south of this place ask for steamers to rescue people left by the last trip of the boats.

Two steamers were dispatched east and west and are expected to return at midnight with several hundreds of persons.

A dispatch from Washington authorized the government engineers to lend men to the further protection of life and property.

The river is still rising.

BREAKING LEVEES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 19.—The levee on the Mississippi fifty miles below Caruthersville, Mo., in the extreme southeastern part of the State, is reported broken and seventeen lives lost. Efforts are being made to verify the story.

The river continues to rise at Caruthersville, and the pressure on the levee is great. All the weak spots are being strengthened, but the work is handicapped by rain. Many families living on the river bank have abandoned their homes and taken refuge in Caruthersville.

A large amount of stock has been lost on the Tennessee side of the river, the entire bottom for miles being inundated. The levee near Cottonwood, about eight miles from Caruthersville, is expected to break and overflow that part of the country.

KENTUCKY'S FLOOD.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PADUCAH, Ky., March 18.—Paducah is both surrounded and invaded by water. Every inch of the lowland in McCracken County is covered. Every stream in West Kentucky is out of its banks. The streets are flooded, bridges are swamped, houses are wrecked, fences are swept away, and roads are rendered impassable.

TRAFFIC SUSPENDED.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

YANKTON, S. D., March 19.—All the traffic on the Great Northern, the Milwaukee and the North Western roads has been suspended here owing to the high water and washouts of bridges and culverts.

IN WISCONSIN.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

RICHLAND CENTER, Wis., March 19.—The worst flood of years prevails here. The water is running through the streets, cellars are filled, sewers are overflowed. Teams and men are banking up the river which is rising fast. Mills and lumber yards are in great danger.

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., March 19.—The Black river is rising rapidly. The cellars and lowlands are flooded. Should the ice move in its present sound condition a great disaster will result.

WAITING FOR RELIEF.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MEMPHIS, March 19.—A family of six found a watery grave by the capsizing of a dug-out while making for the high land. Two were infants.

At the Memphis levee, half a mile from here is a congregation of negroes awaiting their turn for relief. No one is refused.

IN IOWA.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, March 19.—Every stream in this locality is out of its banks and the situation is hourly growing more serious.

Leeds, Springdale and Lynn, Sioux City suburbs, are flooded and the bottoms in the city are under water. Every bridge from Lamars to Sioux City is out. The Big Sioux is on the rampage. Its waters are reported five feet deep in Hawarden street. It is said that the Northwestern Road has lost every bridge between Huron and Hawarden.

The Milwaukee bridge here, across the Floyd will go soon.

The Missouri is reported breaking and gorging near Anawa but no change is yet observable here.

Trains on nearly all the roads are abandoned.

GOVERNMENT LOSES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Argument on the appeal from Judge Wheeler's decision in the action brought in the name of the United States against the Joint Traffic Association, which is alleged to be an illegal combination of railroad interests, formed for the purpose of defeating competition and for the pooling of traffic and earnings was continued today before Judges Wallace and Lacombe, in the Circuit Court of appeals.

At the conclusion of the arguments, the Judges conferred briefly. Then Judge Wallace announced that, in his opinion, the United States had no right to an injunction. The appeal was dismissed.

Wires Down.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 19.—All the telegraphic communication with New Orleans was cut off today. The floods are assumed to be the cause of the stoppage.

THE STEWART CASE.

Further hearing of the demurrers in the case of John Stewart vs. the Democratic County Central Committee was given before Judge Clift this afternoon. The case was finally taken under advisement.

AFTER THE DEFEAT.

Corbett Sets Out to Prove That He Is Anything But Dead.

RUMOR WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

Death of Father Maraschi, the Well Known Jesuit of San Francisco.

LAUNCHING OF GUNBOATS.

One Runs Afoul of the Other and Causes a Little Excitement.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—James J. Corbett, ex-champion of the world, rose bright and early this morning and ate a hearty breakfast in his private rooms at his hotel.

He had slept soundly all night, having been under the influence of opiates administered by his physician.

His face was pallid but he bore few marks of injury, and Jim said he felt fine.

When the Associated Press representative told him that the report was current in the East that he was dead, Corbett was at first indignant, then laughed.

"Dead am I?" he asked, making a few passes at an imaginary antagonist, "I guess my friends will find I am very much alive."

He referred to the rumor several times, and it was evident that it rankled.

"Why, I will fight any man on earth any day in the week, this afternoon preferred, for $20,000 a side."

Corbett had intended resting quietly in his rooms today, but after the rumors of his condition he decided to show himself on the streets this afternoon that his friends might see for themselves that he was not a corpse. Then in the later hours of the morning he kept an appointment with a dentist, who repaired a tooth broken by Fitzsimmons in yesterday's mill.

Corbett says he has as yet no plans for the immediate future, but he still clings to the hope that Fitzsimmons will give him another chance to retrieve his shattered reputation.

TWO BOATS LAUNCHED.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Several thousand people witnessed the launching of the twin gunboats Marietta and Wheeling at the Union Iron Works today. There was no hitch in the arrangements until after the vessels had slid off the ways. The Wheeling did not gain so much momentum as the Marietta and charged the latter in the basin, careening her over to seemingly a dangerous degree.

The Wheeling tilted to such an extent that those on board her rushed to her high side panic stricken. There was no real danger, however, and the Wheeling righted beautifully as soon as the Marietta drifted apart from her. The Wheeling was christened by Miss Lucie Brown who broke a bottle of champagne over her bow while Miss Clifford More performed a similar office for the Marietta.

SWALLOWED BY THE SEA.

A Steamer's Human Freight Scattered on the Bosom of the Deep.

Out of Eighty-Two, After Untold Suffering, Only Four Survive.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Of eighty-two persons comprising the passengers and crew of the steamer Ville De Nazaire, which sailed from this port March 6th for Port au Prince, Hayti, only four are known to have survived the disaster which befell the craft a few hours later.

These four passed through an experience such as fortunately has been the lot of but a few, seeing one after another of the thirty-one others who left the steamer in the large boat perish of exposure to cold or die of hunger, some suffering during seven days in which they drifted helplessly without sail or compass, pangs that drove them to madness before death came to their relief.

Among the survivors is Senor Tagado, a San Domingoan, who was compelled to witness the death of his wife and his four children without being able to alleviate their sufferings.

What became of forty-four persons besides these mentioned above, can only be surmised, although there is a remote possibility that one or more of the three boats in which they left the sinking steamer in the midst of a fierce storm off Cape Hatteras has been picked up by some sailing vessel.

The Ville St. Nazaire was a single screw, bark-rigged steamer, 2640 tons register, owned by the Compagne Trans-Atlantic Generale. The accident vividly recalls the fate of the same company's steamer Ville de Havre, which went down on November 23, 1873, with 226 people on board.

The Ville de St. Nazaire was commanded by Captain Jaffuens, a sailor of experience and ability. Hard weather was experienced from the time the steamer left this port until the water began pouring into and over her, when it was determined to abandon her.

The passengers and crew took four boats, the fifth having been crushed in the attempt to lower it. There had been no time to provision the boats. It was right in the midst of a fierce storm the transfer was made.

Captain Berri, the manager of the West Indian line of the Champagne Trans-Atlantic Generale, was one of the thirty-five men who embarked in the larger of the boats and upon him devolved the command of that frail refuge of so many souls. He, Senor Tagado, Lauts, the third engineer, and the ship's doctor, are the only ones surviving. They were brought to Perth Amboy, N. J., yesterday by the schooner Hilda, which came upon them on March 14th as they were drifting at sea with the dead bodies of four of their fellow passengers in small boats.

The survivors were almost dead from starvation and exposure, and too weak to relieve the small boat of the weight of the four corpses. The four rescued men were brought to this city from Perth Amboy on the tug Idlewild last night. Captain Berri is being attended to by Dr. L. Deplezze, who entertains doubts of his recovery and declares that he must have endured most terrible hardships.

CHANGING THE TARIFF.

Some Difference Regarding the Sugar and Molasses Schedule.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18.—The Ways and Means Committee today changed the sugar schedule to read as follows:

"Sugar not above number 16 Dutch standard, in color, dark bottoms, syrup of cane juice, melada, concentrated melada, concentrated molasses, testing by polariscope not above 75 degrees, one per cent per pound, and for every additional degree shown by polariscopic three hundredths of one cent per pound additional and fractions of a degree in proportion, and on sugar above number 16 Dutch standard, in color, and all sugar which has gone through the process of refining, $01.875 per pound; molasses testing above 40 degrees and not above 56 degrees, 3 cents per gallon."

The original form of the schedule had the words "or fractions of a degree" after "for every additional degree," but the first clause mentioned is stricken out and the words "and fractions of a degree in proportion" were added. "Molasses testing not above 56 degrees" was the original wording of the last two lines.

BLOCKADE SATURDAY.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ROME, Mar. 18.—A dispatch from Canea announces that the blockade of Crete will begin Sunday morning, and a notification to this effect will be addressed to the Governments at Athens and Constantinople. It is further stated that the Powers will also communicate the steps taken to the Governments of the neutral States. The limits of the blockade will be between longitude 23.4 degrees and 26.30 degrees east and latitude 35.48 degrees and 34.35 degrees north.

The blockade will be general against deck vessels, but other ships will be allowed to land goods provided they are not destined for the Greek troops or for the interior of the island.

Finally the Admirals have caused a request to be addressed to the Greek officials to recall all her ships from Cretan waters.

If she does not comply force will be used Sunday morning to compel them to withdraw.

THE SENATE.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—The Senate this morning reconsidered and passed the bill appropriating $300,000 for a State building in San Francisco. The claim of Captain John Cullan against the State for $45,000 was also passed.

TURKEY ON THE STAGE.

Birds Kept on Ice All the Year to Be Eaten in "Shore Acres."

As everyone knows that has seen James A. Herne's beautiful play, "Shore Acres," excellent turkey dinner is served in the second act. This dinner consists of a roast turkey, cranberry sauce, boiled potatoes, celery, apple and mince pie, cake, bread and butter, tea coffee, and milk. This dinner that looks so appetizing costs Mr. Herne on an average a trifle over seven dollars at each performance, and as "Shore Acres" has been played over fifteen hundred times during the past four years by the two companies now touring the United States the actor has paid out over ten thousand dollars for these realistic meals. At certain seasons of the year it often become difficult to obtain these turkeys and they often have to be ordered by telegraph and expressed to different points.

There is a cold-storage ware house in Boston and another in Chicago that has arranged with Mr. Herne to keep the toothsome bird on hand through out the theatrical season and they are ready at a moment's notice to forward the "Shore Acres" turkey. Late in the season it also becomes difficult to get good celery and then green onion are substituted, just as they are often obliged to substitute current jelly for cranberry sauce. The actors like the change. The late Eugene Field was a warm personal friend of Mr. Herne's and they often visited each other. On one occasion Mr. Field invited Mr. Herne to a Sunday dinner as he wanted him to meet some of the Chicago friends. It was during the winter and Mrs. Field made special preparations for the event. Everything went along nicely until they brought in a magnificent turkey, when all the guests all began to laugh most uproariously. Mrs. Field joined in the merriment as soon as she learned what they were laughing about. Mr. Herne dined that day on cold roast beef, which he took in preference to roast turkey. Mr. Herne presents his charming play at the Macdonough Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, March 23rd and 24th.

DAVENPORT COMES.

The Great Actress to Play at the Macdonough for a Week.

Saturday evening "La Tosca" is the bill. There will be no matinee. Souvenirs will be presented to the audience Monday and Saturday evenings.

BACK FROM THE FIGHT.

Oakland's Delegation Arrives From Carson City This Afternoon.

Much Money Placed on Corbett to Win Was Left Behind.

The Oakland delegation to Carson came home this afternoon on the special which arrived at 2:10 P. M. A number brought with them tickets marked, "Corbett, $0 to 35," but they are only souvenirs of the great battle. If they ever are valuable as such, the delegation may realize considerable, for a good assortment is on hand.

There was some delay in the start en route, but the trip was a pleasant one.

Last night, in Carson, an Eastern sporting man was shot by a companion, after the fight. He died later, but the particulars were kept quiet.

The special which the Oaklanders took, was side-tracked within one block of the big Arena and this made the visit more agreeable, for the cars served as headquarters.

Speaking of the fight, Charles Mautalen said:

"It was one of the greatest battles of the age and well worth seeing. There was a big crowd, though not as large as anticipated. I should judge that between 7,000 and 8,000 people were in attendance in all.

HAD THE FIGHT.

"Corbett had the fight all the way through. Between the second and sixth rounds, he had Fitzsimmons at his mercy. They were both somewhat tired later on, but Corbett was up and coming. He probably thought he had Fitzsimmons in a worse fix than he did.

"When the end came, Corbett was working hard to close his opponent's eyes. He had him all but going, when Fitzsimmons came back with his double blow and settled matters.

"There is not the slightest question but that Corbett is by far the better man. Fitzsimmons won on a chance blow—practically the same one he gave Sharkey.

"There was but a small attendance at the other fights, for the wind came up cold and made sitting in the open arena disagreeable.

HAD A GOOD TIME.

"All the Oaklanders had a good time, though some of them did not come home with as much money as they expected to. In all, the trip was well worth taking and the fight could not have been a more scientific exhibition."

The Oakland delegation held off betting until the ring-side was reached. Then Alex Hirshberg came from the ring with a "straight tip" on Corbett at 50 to 35. The boys were quick to get their money up, and with one exception, all lost.

George McDonald, of Engine Company No. 1, was a Fitzsimmons man. He came home with winnings.

Going up on the train McDonald was roundly teased. He invited some friends into the diner to have some coffee, expecting to pay 25 cents a head. The bill amounted to $4.20 for three cups of coffee and one small bottle of beer. He paid it and the others laughed.

The majority of the Oakland visitors secured $5 seats, but they did not stay there long. An opening to the $40 chairs was observed and before the fight was in progress there were occupied.

The affair was not a financial success by any means. The Eastern crowd was by far smaller than expected, though the West was strongly represented.

HYSTERICS IN COURT.

Lively Scene During the Examination of a Witness.

An hysterical woman and an irate husband made things lively for a few minutes in the Police Court this afternoon. It was the case of Chung Sing, charged with an attempted assault upon Mrs. Eda Frank. Mrs. Frank was placed on the stand by the prosecution and told of Chung's delivering a parcel of laundried clothes at her house and of his subsequent assault. Hugh S. Aldrich, appearing for Chung, cross-examined the woman. Mr. Aldrich tried to make his questions as delicate as possible, but the woman became quite nervous.

"Don't get excited," said Mr. Aldrich, "I have no desire to question you more than is absolutely necessary."

"I can't help it," answered the woman and with that she went off into a violent fit of weeping.

The husband, who was present, made a loud protest against the questions. Things were becoming decidedly interesting when Judge Allen ordered the husband to take Mrs. Frank from the room.

Mr. Frank led her forcibly from the room, gruffly demanding to know why she cried. Inside the witness room his influence reduced her violence to a tear-stained calm and in a few minutes she came back into the court room.

After a few more questions Mrs. Frank was excused. Officer Clark told of the arrest and the prosecution rested. Aldrich asked for a dismissal on the ground that there was no evidence to show an attempted assault, and his motion was granted; but Chung was arrested immediately on a lesser charge. His bail was fixed at $100.

THE BONDS APPROVED.

The Board of Public Works held a special meeting this afternoon and approved the bonds of the San Francisco Bridge Company in relation to the repair of the Eighth street bridge.

The bonds are in the sum of $2,500 and the sureties are J. McMullen and W. H. Healey.

Sent to the Asylum.

Leonard Williams, an old man who thinks he is possessed of great wealth, was sent to Ukiah this afternoon by Judge Hall. Williams was rather dangerous. He would meet people on the street and try to borrow a small amount. If it were refused the would use his heavy cane viciously. M. K. Horton was one of those struck.

The old man has no relatives in Oakland, but claims to be the father of Frank Williams of Ukiah.

A Good Climb.

A crowd gathered in front of the Oakland Savings Bank this morning and watched a man climb the 20-foot-high flag staff on top of the building. The halyard had become unfastened. The man climbed dextrously to the top, repaired the break and slid down, cheered by the crowd.

Want to Be Postmasters.

A. W. Bishop is the latest aspirant for Oakland's Postmastership. W. H. Friend is also in the race and even at this early date the candidates are laying plans for support.

OPPOSE FOREIGN TROOPS.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ATHENS, March 18.—According to persistent rumors circulating here Colonel Vassos, the commander of the Greek army of occupation, has been ordered to oppose the landing of foreign troops now on the way to Crete. This, however, may mean only the formal opposition as a protest against the action of the Powers. Advices from Arta on the Greek frontier, show that the privations of the Turks there are so great that some are deserting to the Greek camps. The Turks at Prevesa Epirus are arming in consequence of a conflict provoked by a Greek soldier belonging to the garrison at Actuim. The Turkish troops are occupying several posts on the Servian frontier. The batteries at Arta are being constructed under directions and plans of German officers. It is reported in military circles that the Russians are about to land troops on the coast of Macedonia. The news that the Servian army reserves are being mobilized is causing great anxiety to the Turkish military authorities in Salonica.

C. T. H. PALMER'S WILL.

It Was Filed Today for Probate in the Superior Court.

The will of the late C. T. H. Palmer of Berkeley was today filed for probate by Henry A. Palmer of Los Angeles, a brother of the deceased and who is named as executor.

Under the terms of the will the executor takes all of the effects, real and personal, of the deceased and is empowered to carry on the business ventures until such time as the estate can be advantageously converted into cash. The money is then to be turned over to the widow who is made the sole heir.

The will was drawn in Oakland in 1876. T. J. Arnold, Perry Johnson, and J. J. Porter witnessed its execution.

The estate is valued at about $100,000,—of this amount $30,000 is in promissory notes, $48,000 in stock in various corporations and the remainder in real estate in Alameda County.

Condemned Milk.

The Health Department has found a lot of spoiled condensed milk which was being sold at Levins' grocery store at Tenth and Washington streets. The stuff was being sold for 5 cents a can. It is manufactured by the Elgin Condensed Milk Company, of Elgin, Illinois. It will be confiscated.

When the officials searched the store this afternoon the milk was gone.

No. 10,218—3.

In the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California.

BAY ROCK COMPANY, a Corporation, Plaintiff, vs.
JAMES STANLEY, as Public Administrator and the Administrator of the Estate of T. H. Hawley, deceased, HOMER B. HAWLEY and GEORGE H. CURRY, Defendants.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and the complaint filed in said County of Alameda in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to James Stanley, as Public Administrator and the Administrator of the estate of T. H. Hawley, deceased, Homer B. Hawley and George H. Curry, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; otherwise, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment from you in the sum of $71.87-100 allowed up to the said owing from you to the plaintiff herein, for and on account of certain street assessments levied in the year 1892, upon certain lands and premises situate in the Town of Berkeley, Alameda County, State of California, and particularly described and set forth in the complaint filed in this action, and to which you are specially referred for a description thereof; also interest on the sum now due on account of such assessment from September 17th, A. D. 1892, at ten per cent per annum and costs of suit and attorney's fee.

And that the land and premises so described in the complaint be held liable for the payment of the sum so assessed against the same, and interest and costs and attorney's fee. And that the sums so assessed against the said land and premises, and the interest due thereon, and the cost of this suit and attorney's fee, be adjudged to be a lien upon the said premises described in the complaint filed herein, and that the said land and premises be sold by the Sheriff of Alameda County according to law, and that the proceeds of such sale be applied to the payment of the said plaintiff's claim, interest due thereon, costs of suit and attorney's fee as aforesaid, and such further relief in the premises as may be just and agreeable to equity.

And you are hereby notified, that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, this 20th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

UP AMONG THE STUDENTS

Unusual Activity in the Region of the State University.

Facts and Features of a Very Interesting Character Detailed.

BERKELEY, March 19.—The Occident is adopting a continuous policy of "new journalism" until each issue is expected as a signal for fresh sensationalism in regard to co-education or the faculty. In the issue of yesterday two young women replied to the criticism of "Diogenes," on co-education two weeks ago, and gave him as "good as he sent." The "omniverous notetaking" was declared to be no more a characteristic of "co-eds" than of "eds," the number of young men going to college to pass away the time was claimed to be fully equal to the number of girls in a similar position, and if, as "Diogenes" claimed, the normal school was the place for prospective teachers, this would apply to young men preparing to teach, as well as the young women. The authors of the replies might rival Editor Hoffer himself in sarcasm.

The faculty in yesterday's Occident received a milder criticism than usual. This time their only fault is a too great modesty, a tendency to withdraw into their shells and to narrow University life down to the confines of North Hall recitation rooms.

The spring tennis tournament of the University will be held tomorrow in Oakland at the court on Madison street. The games will begin at 9:30, Gage, '97, Magee, '98, and Stone, '99, are acting as a committee to make arrangements and receive entries.

The University field day will be held tomorrow afternoon on the campus. An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged. The athletes in training, nearly fifty in number, will enter and there will be a few open events. The field day will furnish an excellent opportunity for a comparison with the records of the Stanford men. The poor showing of the freshmen "phenoms" in their contest with the Oakland High School last Saturday is encouraging to the Berkeley men. Birch, the boasted 10-second man, ran a hundred yards in 11 seconds. Morgan ran the low hurdles in 28½ and the high in 17 seconds, and Kerrigan jumped 5 feet 8 inches.

A game between the University base ball team and the Alameda Alerts will be played Charter Day on the campus. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

Secretary McKowan of the faculty posted a notice of resolutions passed by the faculty in a meeting on March 9th, thanking the founders for the seven scholarships just founded, one by the students, one by the alumni, one by the faculty and four by the Regents. The scholarships will begin next term, and will be awarded by competitive examinations.

The Students' Co-operative Association will hold a meeting on April 9th in Stiles Hall. New officers and directors for the coming term will be chosen.

A banquet was tendered to Assemblyman Howard E. Wright last evening by the Good Government Club in Shattuck Hall. The affair was under the management of Prof. Haskell and J. L. Scotchler. Among the guests were President Kellogg, Prof. Joseph Le Conte, George H. Howison, E. W. Hilgard, M. E. Jaffa, A. C. Lawson, W. B. Rising, S. B. Christy, George C. Edwards, and W. W. Haskell, P. R. Boone, president of the Board of Education, J. W. Richards, president of the Town Trustees, J. L. Scotchler and Dr. Thos. Addison. The banquet was given in recognition of Mr. Wright's services in Sacramento, especially in behalf of the University tax bill.

Peter Corrigan, a Berkeley painter, was mixing turpentine and wax at his home on Ashby avenue, South Berkeley, yesterday afternoon when a slight explosion spilled some of the turpentine which took fire and slightly burned his hands and face. The wounds are not very serious.

A mass meeting of the Berkeley Populists will be held tonight in Sisterna Hall, West Berkeley. The issues of the local municipal campaign will be discussed by several able speakers.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Business men of Oakland and other outside places are hereby informed that the money they spend on circulars and folders for distribution through this town by being scattered on lawns and porches, is being thrown away. This community is not impressed with that sort of advertising. Householders generally get so mad over having to pick up and put away the litter from these devices that they wouldn't buy from the firms responsible for them if they otherwise had some inclination to do so. Business men of Alameda understand this fact and seldom offend by scattering printed leaves over the town.—Alameda Argus.

The total vote cast at the late municipal election in Oakland was 9,928, which, at the usual ratio of one voter to every five inhabitants, would give that city a population of 49,640. However, we believe a larger vote was polled at the November election than at the municipal election Monday. At any rate, Oakland ranks third in population of the cities in the State.—Napa Journal.

George W. Arper, vice president of the Oakland Merchants' Exchange, has had something sensible to say on the subject of keeping trade on this side of the bay. He declares, what everybody knows, that people will trade where they think they can do the best, and, other things being equal, where the shopping is most congenial. "What the merchants want to do," says Mr. Arper, "is to make it known that they have something to sell, and that it is to be sold cheaply, and then customers will come. People will not be coerced into buying here or anywhere else. . . . When the people learn that they can buy here as cheaply as in San Francisco there will be no more trouble on that score." That is the point exactly. Tradesmen on this side of the bay must establish the fact that as good goods can be purchased here as cheaply as in San Francisco, with nothing to complain of as to the service or delivery. Then they will not get all the trade, but they will get more than they have now. We have little doubt that this condition exists now to a greater extent than it is believed. Many residents of Alameda are unwarrantably prejudiced against home dealers, but the only way to overcome that is by disproving the charges, so often made, by actual transactions. No prohibitive license charge or other short cut will increase home trade. It is a perplexing condition, but one which must be met with wisdom and patience.—Alameda Argus.

WHEN GREEK MEETS TURK.

Some of the Elements to Be Considered in Event of War.

The Turkish army looks more formidable on paper than it is in reality; sixty battalions and so many batteries and squadrons of cavalry sound very well in description, but it is doubtful if any one of the battalions musters over 600 men and few can show even as many as that. The material of the artillery may be good as well as the gunners, but the region in which the hostilities would begin is not favorable to the movement of artillery other than mountain batteries, or of cavalry, the latter being the Turk's weak point. The report that a considerable Greek force is to assemble at Trikkala in northwest Thessaly, indicates an intention to block the Turkish communications between Macedonia and Epirus by the Metzovo Pass, which could be effected by the mountain levies supported by Greek regulars. Cut off from the main army in Macedonia the Turkish forces in the west would be in a perilous position, for the Greeks of Epirus, who certainly will have received arms from along the coast, would rise. The Tosks, the Albanian Mussulmans of Epirus long ago offered their allegiance to King George on condition of his acknowledging their autonomy and allowing himself to be crowned King of Epirus. No doubt that understanding holds good still. The Tosks are Greek speaking people and under their chief, the famous Ali of Tepedelen, the pasha of Jannina, prepare the way, by their revolt against the sultan at the end of the last century, for the Greek revolution that followed at the beginning of the present.

The Turkish administration has been no more favorable to the Mussulman Tosks than to the Christian Greeks, and the sympathy between the Turk and the Tosk is weakened by the fact that large numbers of the latter are Bektashi, or followers of Hadji Bektash, the founder of a kind of Mohammedan free thinkers. They are a quick, intelligent people, though uneducated, and do not, as do the Turks, allow their religion to override their material interests; in principle they are more in harmony with the Greek than with the Turk.

Whatever happens, the Turk will be fighting a losing battle. A complete victory over the Greeks would not assure the Sultan's hold over any of his territory in Europe west of Adrianople.

Mukhtar Pasha, the commander of the Turkish army in Armenia in the war of 1877-78, now Turkish commissioner in Egypt, shrewdly counselled the Sultan after the Congress of Berlin, to prepare to quit Europe by calling on all the Moslems left in Europe to migrate to Asia. In response to the command thousands of peasants and well to do Mussulman families left everything behind them and moved over to Asia, only to find every promise made them on the Sultan's behalf illusory. Thousands died of disease, want and starvation, and many survivors of those who had left Thessaly on its occupation by the Greeks returned to their homes, which the Greek Government had wisely kept open to them. These Mussulmans are now among the most loyal subjects of the King and wish to remain such. Mukhtar Pasha's advice was, however, applied only to the territories made independent or ceded to Greece and to the Balkan and Danubian States. Mukhtar himself was sent into honorable exile to Cairo for his unpalatable advice. The territory still under the banner of Islam will be held by force until taken by force. But much depends on the course of Bulgaria and Servia and of those who must necessarily be exercising a controlling influence over them.—New York Sun.

The British Plan For Crete.

Lord Salisbury's proposal for the settlement of the Cretan question will prove more acceptable to the majority of the Cretan people than to the militant party in Greece. To the latter, indeed, it will scarcely be at all acceptable. They want immediate and absolute annexation of Crete to Greece, and will be satisfied with nothing less. Nor is their desire unnatural or unjust. Crete ought to belong to Greece. But there is a serious obstacle in the way of the immediate fulfillment of that desire, namely, the determination of Germany and Russia that Crete shall not belong to Greece. Those two Powers would, if they could have their way, force Crete back under the unabated despotism of Turkey. Now let it be granted that Greece could take Crete, and could successfully defend Thessaly against the Turks, and indeed vanquish Turkey in a war, if left to herself. The fact remains that she would not be left to herself. Germany and Russia are actually preparing to take up arms against her in behalf of Turkey. To imagine that Greece could for a moment hold her ground against Germany, Russia and Turkey united is, of course, madness.

The British plan is a compromise and is probably the best that can be devised. It provides for the withdrawal of both the Greek and the Turkish troops from Crete, and the absolute autonomy of the island under a Governor appointed by the Powers. The island would still be nominally a part of the Turkish Empire, just as Bulgaria, Herzegovina, Bosnia, Samos and Egypt are, but it would be entirely free from Turkish rule of any kind, as they are. It would enjoy peace, prosperity, good government, justice. Its ultimate disposition would still be in doubt, but the conduct of Greece would have an important and perhaps a determining influence upon it. Thus Bulgaria, having placed itself under Russian tutelage, is doubtless destined to become a Russian province. Bosnia, Herzegovina and Novi Bazar are under an Austrian Governor and will one day belong to Austria. Egypt will in like manner probably become British territory. If Greece, by discreet diplomacy, can get a Greek Prince appointed Governor of Crete, she will in course of time secure full possession of that island; and her best chance of getting such an appointment lies in her ready acquiescence in the demands of the Powers.

Lord Salisbury's proposal is clearly in the interest of Crete and of Greece, just as was his positive refusal last year to join in blockading the Cretan coast. It may be resented by the more hot headed of the Greeks, and will doubtless be branded by Anglophobes as a support of Turkey. The British Government is endeavoring to rid Crete at once of the horrors of domestic anarchy and of Turkish oppression, and at the same time to make a way for Greece to retire from her present position without humiliation. It is thus proving itself, as on former occasions, the best friend of the Greek race. That its plan will be accepted by the Powers is earnestly to be hoped; that it will be accepted by Greece is to be expected. For, if not, what will occur? Russia, Turkey and Germany will unite to crush Greece, and Greece will be crushed by them unless Great Britain, Italy and France come to her aid; and for them or any of them to do so would mean a general European war of stupendous magnitude. Of course, there is the alternative that Russia and Germany will back down and let Greece have her own way, but that is too improbable for consideration. Surely it is better for Greece to postpone the complete fulfillment of her desires than for her to be crushed by the Great Powers or than for there to be a general European war.—N. Y. Tribune.

Senator Hoar's resolution to limit debate in the Senate by introducing cloture a rule simply to shut off debate at a certain stage—does not find ready assent in that body It has been the aim of many intelligent Senators to have some rule adopted by which discussion in the Senate could be brought to an end. Senator White of California has characterized the Senate rules as "siturian epigrams" and shafts of denunciation and ridicule have been hurled by other Senators at the obsolete regulations designed to encourage filibustering and rebellion, but so far without effect

American steel rails are now in demand in nearly all parts of the world The Philadelphia Times notes in that port the presence of an English Steamer of four thousand tons burden to take on a full cargo of steel rails and locomotives for Japan English steamers have been employed in the same traffic before, with this difference, that they have taken their cargoes from English ports. This is the first American shipment of rails and locomotives for Japan It is not the last, however, for two or three more steamers are already chartered to take cargoes of rails, locomotives and other machinery to Tokio by way of Cape Horn It is cheaper to make the long voyage around the cape than to send the cargoes across the Continent by rail to San Francisco for shipment to Japan

Book making has recently undergone a revolution, on the mechanical side of the business The New York Times calls attention to the rapidity with which books can be turned out by the great public publishing houses One of them recently took an order on Monday for a cloth-covered 12mo volume of 350 pages and actually shipped two thousand of them on Wednesday night The type were all set (by machinery) before work stopped on Monday Electrotypes were made that night, and the presses were running on the morning of the next day The edition of ten thousand copies was all out of the way on Saturday night Quite possibly the book was reviewed, read, and forgotten before another week had passed and the public was calling "Next" As the Turkish gentleman remarked in "Eothen," "Whirr! Whirr! all my wheels, Whiz! Whiz! All by steam" He epitomized the hurry of our civilization thirty-five years ago Since then we have increased the pace ten-fold, and "it is the pace that kills."

Ex-Senator Ingalls pleads necessity for becoming a prize fight reporter When he left Kansas on his trip to Carson, he made the following declaration "I suppose if I had gone into the hospital for political incurables after my defeat, and hung around Washington haunting the White House and the departments importuning friends for indorsements and begging for some place at home or abroad, where I could have been supported from the public treasury, my course would have been considered as dignified and in strict accordance with usage and precedent. Like everybody else in these hard times, I have suffered heavy losses in shrinkage of values and diminished income and am compelled to earn my living by daily toil I am grateful for the opportunity of getting my bread by reputable employment upon the lyceum platform and in journalism, which affords reasonable compensation, with no sacrifice of personal independence Employment in the public service is open to me, but I prefer freedom even when accompanied by the fatigue of long journeys and the hardships and privations of travel, to the bondage and servitude of any position that does not come directly from the people. Benjamin Harrison writes for the Ladies' Home Journal, and I can conceive of no impropriety of my writing for the New York Journal, or any other periodical, upon any subject that does not require the sale of my opinions or the sacrifice of my individual judgment."

Hitting the Nail on the Head.

A more timely subject could not have been chosen than that taken up at the last meeting of the Merchants' Exchange. The question was how to improve the trade of the city One member made the point that it is impossible to confine the trade to any particular location "People will buy where they think they can get the best for their money. What the merchants should do is to make it known that they have something to sell, and that it is to be sold cheap and customers will come."

When John Wanamaker has something to sell he lets the community know it. His vast trade has been built up on advertising. What he had done in Philadelphia he was confident he could do in New York. He took his advertising plans with him, and has built up another great business in that city. In these last days business men who have anything to sell, must be in touch with the public The best method of doing it has become an art. It is the business world that achieves success these last days.

Last Days of Spain in Cuba.

If there is any certainty about the reports which come from Spain, it is that the present condition cannot last much longer. It is admitted that Spain cannot borrow any more money and that there is not enough in the Treasury to maintain the struggle beyond the coming midsummer.

What will occur then? Will Spain withdraw and give up the island to the Cubans for a money consideration? But what could the Cubans do in the way of raising money? A rumor was in circulation that Spain would accept a hundred millions from the Cubans and quit. But the latter have very little money. They have raised considerable sums on bonds, all of which go to swell the Cuban debt in case of independence. If that were an assured fact, possibly other large sums might be obtained on similar securities.

There was a time when it seemed to many that the United States wanted Cuba. But there is no such public feeling now Secretary Sherman has distinctly declared that this country wants nothing of Cuba but her trade. Not a dollar will be offered to buy the island. The Spanish Minister, having been told that Spain will be held to the strict observance of treaty rights, the former intimated that he might as well go home. It is evident that the relation of the Minister and Secretary will be a mere formal one.

While it is admitted that Spain will have no money to pay for military operations in Cuba after midsummer, there is no note of financial distress coming from the Cubans They can hold out indefinitely. That is the present situation It does not promise much for Spain There will be a new turn of events in a few months With money the struggle could be indefinitely prolonged Without it the end is not far off

Blockade and War.

It is assumed by some of the European correspondents that the blockade of Crete means war on the part of Greece. That is rather a strained inference Crete is nominally a possession of Turkey The European powers have decided that it shall remain such for the present, preparatory to giving complete autonomy to that island. The blockade of Crete is for the purpose of preventing further operations there on the part of Greece The latter can make no headway against the allied fleets Greece was given six days to abandon all operations in Crete, but paid no attention to the prescribed condition except to address a note of remonstrance to the Powers which has had a prodigious influence on public opinion in Europe. The time also named for the blockade to take effect has been extended as if the Powers were averse to bringing on a crisis

Greece must be well aware that the popular sympathy in Europe is on her side Gladstone has voiced it in a pamphlet which addressed to the Duke of Westminister was intended for the civilized world' 'I do not believe it is the European people whose judgment will tolerate the punishment of Greece for the good deeds she recently performed Certainly it will not be the French, who so largely contributed to the formation of the kingdom; nor will it be the Italians, who are so mindful of what their fathers have undergone; and, least of all, the English, who, if the road were open to them by the dissolution of Parliament, would show how they are minded by turning up a Parliament which, upon this question, would speak with unanimity."

Another Trial of Immigration.

The Lodge Immigration Bill which was passed by the last Congress, and was vetoed by President Cleveland, has been introduced for a new trial There is a strong probability that it will pass by increased majorities The Bill in most respects reflects public opinion touching the restrictions that ought to be imposed on immigration. The objections urged by President Cleveland did not satisfy the country. Practically, he was opposed to all restrictions.

A new House has assembled in Washington fresh from the people There are also a number of new Senators, some taking their seats for the first time and others who have been reelected During the last general election there was not in any platform, so far as we could learn a single declaration in favor of unrestricted immigration There were many clear and emphatic declarations in favor of a limitation. What was public opinion at that time is public opinion now, a fact which is pretty sure to have a recognition in the present Congress and by President McKinley

Of course there is a great deal of humbug about art criticism Everybody knows that This is well illustrated by a story told by the Westminister Gazette of how one of the paintings of Constable, the famous artist, was once rejected by the Hanging Committee of the Royal Academy of which committee the artist was himself a member By some accident one of Constable's landscapes, a small work, had been placed among the outsiders' pictures and was passed in its turn before the selecting committee The first academician pooh-hooed it as too green, the second said it was empty and the verdict of the third was equally unfavorable Constable who came next said not a word, but the remaining members of the committee were unanimous in condemning the picture, which was rejected Directly the verdict was pronounced Constable rose from his seat and to the astonishment of the committee claimed the picture as his own. He thanked his fellow academicians with bitter politeness for their opinions, which, he said, were the more valuable because they were totally unbiased The president, Sir Martin Arthur Shee, tried in vain to smooth matters over, and begged Constable to excuse the mistake and to allow the picture to be hung But the indignant artist would not be mollified, the picture had been rejected by the committee, and nothing should induce him to exhibit it. He was as good as his word, and the rejected picture was removed the next day.

President David Starr Jordan circulates in the country extensively. A week ago he was set down for a lecture at Cornell University, going there from Washington to deliver a lecture on the fur seal. It may be a good plan sometimes for a University President to know from personal observation what is going on in the larger world,

Two Sources of University Life.

Some discussion has been going on of late touching the tendency to lessen the University spirit at Berkeley, because so many of the students reside out of that town. Only about eight hundred, or a little more than half the whole number have lodgings in Berkeley. The San Francisco contingent is a large one and a very large number reside in Oakland and Alameda.

What is presumably lacking in the university spirit is a closer fellowship and possibly a greater identity of interest with the University, which is found in some other institutions. In many of the older colleges and universities of the country by means of the dormitory system, students are enabled to make their homes for the greater part of four years in the institutions. They grow to them, so to speak Nothing comes between them and the college save an occasional home feeling and a visit to it perhaps once a year

But for anything that has been made apparent, university men who do not have the advantage of the dormitory system have just about as much loyalty to their own institution as do men who have their homes for four years in dormitories There is of course a difference of opinion as to the real value of lodging students in colleges. The old system and the new one are contrasted with no great advantages of one over the other. Students who live at home have the advantage of home associations, and these in many instances will count for much Others find homes in good families and have the refining influence which these offer.

The primary object in entering a college is to obtain a liberal education. If the student is in earnest every other consideration is subordinated to this one The friendships that may be formed are valuable, but after all success in life will have little to do with these. Social considerations may give a richer color to student life. But the strongest feeling of loyalty to an institution is inspired by the real educational advantages which have been offered. Many a poor young man who has worked his way through college having few social advantages, and very little time to spend in college fraternities, finding his lodgings any where in town, will be as loyal to the institution and as staunch a friend to it in after years as if he had lodged within its walls, and had never had a moment's concern as to how he was to pay monthly bills.

This line of thought is suggested by an inclination on the part of some to disparage the real advantages of university life at Berkeley. The fact that there are no dormitories and that all the students must find lodgings in private houses is mildly deprecated. If these young men and women have temporary homes with good families, what have they lost that is not more than made good by more refining influences than are ever found in college dormitories? The society in Berkeley or Oakland which students may enter with the home life that is offered, is more than an equivalent in most instances for any thing that may be lost by a gregarious life in any educational institution

Having worn the Vanderbilt pew in St. John's Church threadbare, Washington gossips are telling a new story about Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt They say she drove up to the new Corcoran art galleries the other day, and sent the footman to the door to inquire whether it was a "free day" or not. On learning that it was a "pay day" Mrs. Vanderbilt drove off.—New York Press

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE.

The Latest Plan Proposed for Raising Funds for Its Relief.

It has been decided by the directors of the Woman's Exchange on Twelfth street to discard the plan of giving an entertainment after Lent, as it would involve too much work and expense, and instead arrange for a series of teas to be given at members' houses at intervals of two weeks.

The first tea will be given the first Wednesday or Thursday after Easter by Mrs Sharon at her home on Franklin and Durant streets.

The next will be given by Mrs Lohse, on Webster street.

Mrs. Randall of Piedmont will take charge of another gathering which will be a garden party

The hour is set at 12 o'clock, and the afternoon will be made attractive with music and other features An admission of 25 cents will be charged, but the teas will be invitational affairs

About 200 guests will be received each afternoon Light refreshments will also be served At the next monthly meeting the first Wednesday in April, all arrangements will be completed

At the last meeting several members expressed a wish to have a collector call for their monthly dues, thereby saving them the trouble of going to the Exchange with it One of the consignors has been appointed collector, receiving a commission for her services She began her work this week, and so far the new plan has proven satisfactory.

The Exchange is doing well at present, and new kinds of work, very attractive have been received.

QUARTERLY REPORTS.

Favorably Considered in the Classes of the High School.

Next week is the last week before the mid-term vacation in the schools

In the High School the quarterly reports of the teachers relating to the standing of pupils will be sent out on Friday, and called in next week. The system of quarterly, instead of monthly reports, has been found very satisfactory, after a trial of a term and a half The parents are better informed as to the work done by their sons and daughters in school.

It is contemplated to have a meeting of parents Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the High School building. Several teachers will give talks on matters pertaining to the school and the work.

The lunch room does fairly well. There are six tables, each seating sixteen persons in the large room in the basement. These are usually occupied at lunch time.

On the night of the famous Presidential election of 1876 John C Reid, managing editor of the New York Times was sitting at his desk feeling blue and despondent over the apparent defeat of Hayes Just then a Western Union messenger boy entered with this telegram from W H Barnum, chairman of the Democratic National Committee "Have you received any positive information about South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana?" He opened the yellow missive listlessly, but as his eyes took in its contents, his manner instantly changed Reid's mind acted quickly and he argued "If Barnum wants to know that, he is not sure himself Without these three States Tilden cannot win. There is still a faint chance for Hayes It was now 1 A M, and Reid ordered the Times' forms held back. The leader was changed to show that the result was still in doubt, but that the chances favored Hayes. The Times' correspondents in South Carolina and Florida were wired at once to watch the count in those States very closely Reid then rushed to the Fifth Avenue Hotel to consult with Zack Chandler and W E Chandler, the leading campaign managers It was 3 A M, and he found the Republican headquarters closed, everything dark and the two Chandlers in bed. They had given up two hours before, believing Tilden was elected The present Senator Chandler was routed out of bed and shown Barnum's significant telegram He saw the point instantly Reid and Chandler then went to Zack Chandler's room and woke up the old Michigan stalwart At 4 A M the following memorable telegram was put on the wires and spread by the Associated Press to all parts of the country "Hayes has 185 electoral votes and is elected. Z Chandler." The rest is history

The Alameda County Members Are Doing Splendid Work.

OAKLAND FIGHTS ON HAND

The Merchants Very Anxious About the License Measure.

DR. CROWLEY AND HIS SUCCESS

The Irrigation Funding Bill Is Sent to the Governor.

(Special correspondence of the Tribune)

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—The Alameda County delegation this session will go on record as the fighting members of the Legislature, for right up to the last moment they are waging a pitched battle in behalf of one of the many measures in which they have been interested.

This time it is a bill affecting the interests of the tradesmen of Oakland, who are considerably worked up over the matter, as will be seen by the following dispatch received today by Hart North:

"We respectfully ask you and through you the Alameda delegation to use your best efforts to defeat Senate amendment to Assembly bill 362,

"JAMES P. TAYLOR,
"President Board of Trade.
"W. V. WITCHER,
"President Merchants' Exchange."

The bill is a short one so it is given herewith. The part in parenthesis is the amendment objected to:

"No license shall hereafter be imposed upon any person soliciting orders for the sale of any article or articles manufactured or produced in this State (and who sells exclusively to the trade,) which under the constitution or laws of the United States, cannot be legally imposed upon a person or persons soliciting orders in this State for the sale of a similar article in a like manner, made or produced in any of the States of the United States. This section shall, in no manner, affect the right or power of counties or municipalities to impose licenses upon persons conducting regular places of business therein."

It will be no easy matter to do what the merchants ask, but it will be done for Frank Leavitt and the rest of the Oaklanders in the house intend to make it a special issue so there is no question about the result.

THE SALARY FIGHT.

In connection with one of the other bills from the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland, Judge Waymire is objecting very strongly to the attacks made on him about it. The measure is the one that permitted the garnisheing of the salaries of public officials and as will be remembered Judge Waymire opposed it.

"I did so,' he said to your correspondent tonight, "because I found after a careful examination of the statutes of other States that there was not a similar law anywhere in the Union. As there was no precedent, therefore, that was one point against it, for it is presumptive that if such an enactment were a wise one it would have been adopted long ago in one of the other States.

"Furthermore the law presumes that a public official receives just enough salary to enable him to maintain himself in a manner commensurate with the position he occupies. To expose him therefore to outside attacks would, from a strictly legal standpoint, mean that he would either have to quit his office or else pilfer and become dishonest.

"Another argument against the bill is that it was being warmly backed by the money lenders and warrant shavers of San Francisco, and everyone knows what that means. I had no personal interest in the matter at all but it was discussed several times in our Judiciary Committee and was always voted down. I do not see, therefore, why I should be subjected to the attacks made on me from Oakland and I think the merchants there who have been making the fight can meet the situation much better if instead of attempting legislation they don't give credit to those they think will not pay.

THE ROADMASTERS.

Assemblyman Clark of Niles is somewhat downcast tonight. He came to Sacramento with a pet project from his part of the county, and although he has done all in his power for it, it was knocked on the head today. Clark's hobby was to have roadmasters elected annually in their respective districts, thus taking the appointments away from the Supervisors.

The Assembly took to his ideas kindly enough, but the Senate objected and and the Conference Committee gave the project its conge. Had the provision carried there would have been elections each May all over the county in a manner similar to that in which the school trustees are selected.

AN IRRIGATION VICTORY.

Those interested in irrigation bonds will be pleased to learn that the funding bill has passed both branches of the Legislature and has gone to the Governor, who will undoubtedly sign it. From the important part it will play in the agricultural sections of the State the bill is unquestionably one of the most important passed this session.

It enables the taking up of all the present bonds and a re-issue at the rate of five per cent. The present bonds call for six per cent interest, but financiers would sooner take the new securities because they will run for about thirty years. At the end of twenty years five per cent of the bonds must be paid and five per cent annually thereafter, until the last payment is made.

The bill will enable a settlement of all the litigation over the bonds and will get out of the way all the unpaid judgments and warrants. The holders of the bonds will rejoice when the signature of the Governor finally makes the measure a law, for the way things are now they are confronted with a financial blockade over the old securities.

A TAXATION SCHEME.

Judge Waymire intends, during these closing days of the session, to rush through, if possible, his constitutional amendment in relation to revenue and taxation. It exempts in addition to what has heretofore been without taxation, all property used exclusively for charitable, religious and educational purposes, and also personal property of a value not to exceed $100 in the possession of each taxpayer.

It will be seen that the measure is very far-reaching, for not only will all the schools and charitable institutions of the State be off the tax rolls, but also everybody who has not got more than $100 worth of property. In San Francisco alone the personal property rolls show that there are 25,000 people who pay taxes on less than $100, and with this as a basis to work on, it is estimated that there are about 400,000 poor people in the State who are taxed.

It might at first be thought that such a measure would be impracticable, because it would cut off a large slice of the State's income. This, however, is not the case, as the records show. The total valuation of property in the State is about $1,200,000,000. The total value of all the educational property in the State, including Stanford University, is only $6,000,000. The total value of the religious property in the State is but $3,000,000, charitable institutions are assessed on about a million dollars' worth of property. The total therefore of all the property exempted by the measure is only $10,000,000 as follows:

Educational	$6,000,000
Religious	3,000,000
Charitable	1,000,000
Total	$10,000,000

Examination of the assessment rolls and estimates thereon show that by excluding from the list all holders of less than $100 worth of property about $40,000,000 would be struck off. The total reduction therefore would only be $50,000,000 out of the $1,200,000,000. This would cause a loss to the State of $60,000 annually, but as nearly one-half of the money collected from the poor people goes to defray the expenses incidental thereto the total loss annually to the State would be but $30,000—a mere bagatelle when the boon conferred on thousands of struggling families is considered.

LEAVITT'S GOOD WORK.

Assemblyman Frank Leavitt deserves a large percentage of the credit due for obtaining $10,000 for the district fair in Oakland. He handled the whole fight in the House, and it was a hard one, for Shanahan led a strong opposition that only wanted to allow $5,000. Some of the Alameda County men got alarmed and wanted Leavitt to accept the $5,000, as they were afraid he might lose an appropriation altogether, but with his usual grit, he refused to compromise. That he sized up the situation right was subsequently shown by the fact that the $10,000 was secured.

A petition is in circulation here asking the Governor to re-appoint W. M. Kent of Oakland as director of the District Association. Senator Denison is a hold-over and if Kent is named the Alamedans will be satisfied if the three other places go to Democrats.

A PLACE FOR MORGAN.

C. B. Morgan of Oakland will be named by the Governor as one of the three commissioners who during the next two years will examine all the automatic voting machines and report to the Legislature which is the best. The other two appointments will go to Democrats.

The Senate had amended the Assembly bill on the subject, which was introduced by North, so that the commission should consist of the State Board of Examiners, but the Assembly would not accept the amendment and the Senate receded.

THE PATRONAGE FIGHTS.

Captain Hackett's fight is still in an unsettled condition, though the suspense will not be long. At 4:30 tomorrow (Friday) afternoon the Senate will caucus to decide the matter and also to dispose of the Harbor Commissionerships. As regards the last named places, the confirmation of Harney and Herold is now an established fact, for Stratton, who has been making Herold's fight, has nineteen vites pledged in caucus.

The chances have veered around a little more in Captain Hackett's favor during the past few hours and Senator Stratton, as chairman of the sub-committee, will report in his behalf. A battle royal will then take place and though many still predict a victory for Bohen, Captain Hackett will win if the votes line up the way he says they are promised to him. The Captain is conducting his own campaign and is not losing an opportunity that can help him along.

DR. CROWLEY'S SUCCESS.

As hinted in this correspondence yesterday, Dr. Crowley is to be a member of the State Board of Health. The Governor came to the conclusion today that the Oaklander would be both a good and popular man to appoint, so Secretary McCabe prepared the commission and the doctor will get it in a day or two.

Dr. Crowley may be well complimented for the hurricane fight he made for the place. He only got into the contest a few days before he came to Sacramento, and it is safe to say that much of his success is due to the favorable impression he created on his visit here. He made a friend of every one he met and they got down and worked for him with the good results announced today.

The position is one of eminence in the medical world, for the five members of the Board practically control the health affairs of the State. Only eminent practitioners are selected for the offices for they must be men who can not only be entrusted with the honor of the State, but who will make no mistakes in their professional opinions.

ANXIOUS CLAIMANTS.

Those who have claim and deficiency bills on file or in the Governor's hands are getting somewhat anxious over the statement semi-officially sent out from his office that he intends to do a good deal of slashing so as to keep the tax levy down. The indications now are that he will not act on any of the special appropriations until the general bill reaches his hands, so there are some very troublous hours in store for the claimants.

The Governor is not very pleased over the action of the Senate in cutting down his secret service allowance from $10,000 to $5,000. He says he needs every cent of the money annually for the special expenses of investigations, etc., he is obliged to conduct and that the operations of his office will be crippled if the reductions are made. Assemblyman Frank Leavitt has taken up the fight for the Governor and says he will have that $10,000 item restored before he gets through.

FOR WITNESSES.

A very important bill as regards witnesses will go to the Governor tomorrow. It is to prevent any person interested in an estate from testifying as to facts occurring before decedent's death, not only in an action upon a claim, but also in an action against an estate relating to the title to property in decedent's possession at the time of his death.

The same policy which closes the mouth of a surviving party to a transaction where a suit is upon a claim against an estate, would prevent his testifying as to facts constituting an alleged trust in property, because the elements of danger of fraud are equal in both cases.

HERE AND THERE.

Mrs. Murry, a well known figure around this and many other Legislatures, has written to one of the Senators stating that she intends to commence a suit against the Sunday News for libel. She was written up in connection with her recent trouble here with her protege, Mrs. Bartlett.

Assemblyman Howard Wright has returned from a compulsory business trip to Oakland.

The Examiner correspondents did not stay in jail long. They got out again tonight on a writ of habeas corpus issued from the United States District Court.

The bill appropriating $6,000 for a California exhibit at the Hamburg fair this year has passed both Houses.

Homer Craig is up from Oakland.

Jack Quigley, a well known railroad man, is here from Los Angeles.

OLDEST IN CHICAGO.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Mar. 19.—Adam Adamicek, a Pole, has just celebrated his 112th birthday. His wife is still living and is 87 years of age. Both are almost totally blind from old age, and yet their general health otherwise is remarkably good.

Adamicek is believed to be the oldest man in Chicago and as far as known the oldest in the United States. Until recently none but the parish priest and his Polish neighbors knew his remarkable story, although his habitation has stood in the stretch of muddy prairie near the railroad tracks for thirty years.

Adamicek's almost abnormally large head, his short stature and bent form, give to him a brownie like aspect. This is heightened by a surprising activity.

His long gray hair straggles out from under a naked hat, and he wears a thin gray beard. For the last twelve years, ever since he passed the century milestone, Adamicek has remained within his muddy cabin. His muscles are not shrunken nor his form shriveled. Excepting the uncertainty which his blindness gives to his walk, he steps firmly about the house and the palisaded enclosure.

The records in the Polish Bible showed that he was born at Minsk, near Warsaw, in 1785, but still there was a tendency to disbelieve his story.

Accordingly the priest of the Roman Catholic Church, who visited the old couple occasionally, wrote to the parish clerk for confirmation and found that the record in the Bible was correct. The old man is an inveterate snuff taker and has smoked nearly all his life. He has not been a total abstainer from liquors.

Adamicek's wife at 87 years, despite her partial blindness, is sprightly and well preserved. The old couple both believe they are far from life's end. Neither has been ill for years, and neither is at all tired of life.

Monuments That Marked the Death Place of President Garfield.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—The marble tablet that rested in the south wall of the ladies' waiting room of the Baltimore and Potomac River Railway depot, and the brass star placed in the tiled flooring of the apartment to mark for all time the spot on which President Garfield fell when assassinated, have been removed. A superstitious dread on the part of the traveling public of a constant reminder of a tragedy seems to have led to the removal of these monuments.

The immediate cause of the removal of the tablet and star was the fire which occurred in the depot on March 4th, which damaged the tablet to such an extent the officials declared it was not in a condition to be replaced. A portion of the marble tiling had also to be removed, and although the metal star placed where the President fell might have been put back in its old place, it was permanently removed, and the spot is now marked only by a piece of red tiling, which would pass unnoticed except to those familiar with the place and the tragedy that was enacted there.

It is said that there has been much complaint on the part of the traveling public of having the horrors of the assassination constantly recalled to their mind when going through the depot and waiting for trains. To such an extent has this feeling prevailed that the company has long regarded the reminder of the tragedy as a disadvantage, and it is believed by many that the officials were only too glad to have an excuse to obliterate the monuments.

GREEK PATRIOTISM.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ATHENS, 3 A. M., March 19.—The Greek Government has decided to recall the gunboats Phios and Pinos from Cretan waters.

The Cabinet was in session until 2 A. M. It is officially stated that only 1,500 out of the 85,000 in the army reserve men called out failed to respond, thus setting at rest the stories circulated of the wholesale failure to answer the call to arms.

A dispatch from Canea today says than an Austrian newspaperman, Herr Pinter, who recently visited the camp of Colonel Vassos, commander of the Greek army of occupation, has been arrested and detained under close guard. Vassos remains at Alikingu.

The Greek warships Nanarichos, Miaulis, have arrived at Piraeus with twelve prisoners captured during the recent attack which the Turks made upon Monondondri, near Platania.

Three emissaries of the Turkish legation at Athens have been arrested in the camp of Colonel Vassos.

An engagement is expected today at Menex on the frontier owing to the reinforcing of the Turkish garrison there.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

VINELAND, N. J., Mar. 19.—Twenty years ago Capt. Moses B. Lucas went away without telling any one where he was going. He was not heard from and it was supposed he was dead.

When he went away he left behind a wife and a daughter. They have continued to work the farm, which gave them support, ever since. To facilitate movement about the fields and barn yard, they donned many years ago a more fitting style of dress for that work than skirts. Since knickerbockers became fashionable they have modified their dress to knickerbockers.

He has suddenly returned and in a carriage was driven up to the door. Mrs. Lucas answered, and in a minute she and the stranger were clasped in each other's arms, the man being her long lost husband. Lucas is said to have become wealthy.

ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

Alameda Day in the Great Gathering Will Be July 13th

Representatives of the Oakland City Christian Endeavor Union, in charge of the plans for a floral fete during the visit of the Eastern Endeavorers in July, visited the general '97 committee in San Francisco last night and presented their plans and asked that Tuesday, July 13th, be designated as Alameda County Day.

The request was readily granted, Chas. F. Baker, who claimed to represent this county, being the only one to object. He thought it would be a bad precedent to set, as all the other counties would want a day.

The other members of the committee asserted that Alameda County was paying a just proportion of the convention expenses and deserved more than any other county. They will make an effort to have the date placed upon the programme, which is now in course of preparation in Boston, Mass.

The committee will attend the meeting of the Board of Trade this afternoon and make an effort to have the day officially recognized by that body.

At the next meeting of the Merchants' Exchange the committee expect to have the executive committee named and to be ready to ask that organization for recognition.

Judge Wood emphatically declares that he will make no effort to be reinstated in the Police Department where Judge Allen now rules, in accordance with Mayor Davie's order.

"I have had enough of judicial fights" declared Judge Wood to a Tribune reporter, "and I purpose to steer clear of them as much as possible in the future. I shall make no effort to regain my former position."

"Has Captain Thomas promised to reinstate you when he takes office?" was asked.

"No" emphatically answered the Judge. "Captain Thomas has made no promise of that nature and as far as I am aware there will be no change in my present position."

THE PALE HORSE AT LAST

Jockey Carter Once Rode to Victory in the American Derby.

The Jury's Theory as to How He Spurred at Length Into Eternity.

The inquest over the remains of Sam Carter, who shot himself in a saloon on Lower Broadway, as exclusively told in last evening's Tribune, was held this morning. The wife, brother, and a number of other witnesses were put on the stand, but none of them could assign any cause for the suicide other than despondency.

It had been intimated that recent trouble with his brother, Walter and his wife, spurred the man on to the mad deed, but careful questioning failed to bring out any such facts.

The verdict of the jury was that deceased had "died of a gun-shot wound, inflicted over the heart with suicidal intent.

At one time Carter was one of the best known jockeys in the United States. He rode the winner of the first American Derby and later won ore of the first of the great futurity races. He rode for Haggin, "Lucky Baldwin and other noted horsemen before he took on too much weight.

The last few years he has been serving in the menial capacity of a trainer and but lately was discharged from the Oakland Track.

RICHNESS IN WOOD.

An Instructive Lecture by Prof. Lemmon at the Central School.

The boys of the four manual training classes were entertained and instructed yesterday afternoon by Prof. Lemmon in an address on "The Forest Endowment of California."

The lecture was given in the class room of Mr. Burckhalter, whose pupils were well prepared by their instruction in physical geography to receive it, and their practical experience with various woods under the shop instruction by Mr. Gleason made the lesson doubly valuable.

Maps of the continents, of North America and of California, were used, and specimens of cones covered the large experiment table, including some from classic Mt. Olympus, from the Andes and from the Sierras. The professor was given the closest attention and warmly applauded at the end. The boys will bear him in grateful remembrance.

"One of the greatest boons to America," he said, "comes from the expansion of the continents in the north temperate region, allowing the nations to emigrate and colonize on parallel lines."

The Ice Age was a destroyer of most plants and disperser of the remainder.

The plants of Eurasia suffered more than those of the Americas, owing to oceans on the south, a few that were in the vicinity of the Isthmus of Suez escaping.

Plants of North America escaped into South America.

A thermal age followed. The effect was still more fatal to the plant world. Lateral ranges of mountains in Eurasia obstructed the return march of the floral columns month, but the longitudinal direction of the Rocky Mountains permitted their easy return. These conditions were favorable to the settlement of America by a great variety of flora.

The western trend of the Rocky Mountains obstructed the return of some plants found for the great Mississippi Valley and sheared them off northwestward into the cul de sac formed by the Sierras and coast line of California. Hence, while on all the earth there are seventy-seven species of pines, thirty-four of them are in North America and twenty-five of these are on the Pacific Slope, eighteen being in California.

So, of other important trees, many large families were totally lost in the change from extreme cold to humid heat. Other great phenomena conspired to render some species of trees in California's cul de sac of monstrous dimensions, e. g., the sequoias, the largest trees in all the world; the Douglas spruce, the largest spruce extant; the California red fir, the largest fir known.

Some four of our pines bore cones much heavier or much larger than were found elsewhere, being eight to ten pounds in weight and fifteen to twenty inches in length.

The values of certain California trees for lumber was pointed out, notably the sugar pine, yellow pine and redwood.

Returning to sources of this great endowment, the speaker entered Mr. Burckhalter's domain by referring to astronomy, mentioning the declaration by Sir James Ball that the ice and thermal ages were caused by differences of the earth's inclination on its axis, producing unequal length of seasons, summer and winter.

This perturbation is caused by planetary influence, principally that of Venus, with half as much by Jupiter. So they got a large number of cone bearing trees through the attraction, the affection of Venus for this earth, combined with certain configurations of coast lines and trend of mountain chains.

This matchless endowment was due also to the robust energy of the earth in hurling the great equatorial currents across the ocean, the great Kuro-siwa from Japan reaching California, where the State's northernmost boundary bulges out into the Pacific, and mingling its warm, moist atmosphere with the cold current that slips stealthily down the coast from Alaska, furnishes the fog and rain that clothes Del Norte, Humboldt and Mendocino in perpetual verdure, producing trees for the skies to rest upon.

The professor's voice was weak, but it grew stronger under enthusiasm, and the manifest interest of the audience, until all regretted that the time was so short.

The judicious use of a pure and wholesome stimulant is conducive to health. The famous old Jesse Moore Whiskey is absolutely pure.

COMMANDERS AT ODDS.

General Gomez Refuses Orders From His Superior Officers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A special to the Herald from Los Barracones District of Sancti Spiritus, says:

"Several times during the last year rumors were rife about misunderstandings between General Gomez and the Provincial Government of Cuba, arising from disputes over the right of supreme authority.

The truth about the matter has been carefully concealed and suppressed by the Cubans who are desirous of making it appear that all are working in perfect harmony.

Similar dissensions in the past have been the cause of disastrous civil wars in the South American Republics of Spanish origin.

When Gomez and Maceo left Camaguey to make their first grand march, carrying the revolution to the Western Provinces, the members of the Provincial Government remained in the East. Gomez accomplished the plan he had mapped out and returned to Puerto Principe Province in May last.

The circumstances that gave rise to their first misunderstanding are not generally understood, but it is supposed that Gomez, flushed with victory, after the invasion, tried to place himself in a position independent of the Government.

President Cisneros had sent various letters, ordering Gomez to report to him but they were not obeyed. Gomez expected the Government to come to see him, and the President, as the head of the Republic, naturally insisted on his subordinant obeying orders. Neither er cared to yield and the result was that the two forces marched around the Province more than a month, trying to avoid a meeting. Several times they were within three miles of each other, but on receiving knowledge of the others' proximity, each promptly drew further away.

About the last of June, Gomez unconsciously encamped within a mile of San Anton, where President Cisneros and his Cabinet were quartered. Cisneros sent an officer with an order, requesting him to report, but instead of complying, Gomez immediately struck his camp and withdrew a distance of about six miles.

It is stated that the President, tiring of such conduct, then sent a very peremptory note ordering Gomez to present himself before him, which had the desired result.

Gomez came into camp with a band playing and banners flying. To all outward appearances, the reception on both sides was cordial, but after entering headquarters, the two chiefs were closeted together for a long time. What passed between them was carefully kept a secret.

It is learned, however, on competent authority, that President Cisneros reminded Gomez that although he was a Major General of the army, he must recognize the authority of the President as Commander-in-Chief, or tender his resignation.

Some of the causes that led to this firm stand on the part of Cisneros were that Gomez ignored all diplomas issued by the Government, not openly, as that would have caused considerable trouble, but by failing to appoint the holders to command.

Many of the officers returned and complained of their treatment, and as they were favorites their cases commanded attention. Another great cause of complaint and a very just one, was that Gomez was very harsh in his treatment of officers and men.

A KIDNAPPER KILLED.

Tried to Abduct a Child, but Is Met With Lead From Officers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 19.—A special from Houston, Texas, says: "Walter Hughes, carpenter and ex-employee of the Southern Pacific Railroad, met his death at the hands of Detectives Ellison and Proctor. Some time ago Hughes proposed to Sol Edel, a saloon keeper, to abduct the children of Berry W. Camp, a rich lawyer, and Frank Dunn a wealthy pawnbroker, and to demand from the fathers a ransom of $40,000. According to Edel's statement he did not give Hughes an answer, but informed Chief of Police Helm of the proposal which had been made to him. Under Helm's instructions, he pretended to accept the offer of Hughes and entered into the plot, maintaining communication with the officers. Messrs. Camp and Dunn, were informed of the plot.

Hughes, in order to carry out the plan, took a cottage near the Dunn mansion.

Everything being satisfactorily arranged last night, Hughes went to the Dunn residence, to steal the children. Guards had been placed over Dunn's house two weeks ago, and last night Detectives Ellison and Proctor were in waiting with shotguns.

They were discovered by Hughes, while he was trying to enter the building. Hughes fired two shots from a pistol at the officers, narrowly missing them, and they poured four loads of buckshot into his body, literally riddling it.

On his body, besides a large pistol, was found an immense knife and a bottle of chloroform. Hughes' wife was put under arrest, but no charges were made against her.

POETRY ABOVE ALL.

It Inspires Hope and at the Same Time Diffuses Beauty.

VIEWS OF REV. DR. ALGER.

The Wholesome and Morbid Elements in the Heavenly Muse.

FEATURES TO BE CULTIVATED.

The Interesting and Scholarly Lecture at the Ebell by Dr. Alger.

The Rev. Dr. Alger, formerly of Boston, now of Berkeley, lectured last night at the Ebell Society on "The Wholesome and Morbid Elements in Poetry and in Life."

The audience was quite large and showed its appreciation at the close of the lecture by a rising vote of thanks.

"Happiness and peace of mind," said the speaker, "are diminishing quantities of today. Our modern life is characterized by a hysteric nervousness. The same convulsive qualities have invaded our literature, in our new books, and for a beneficent antidote, for a pleasant relief, we turn to the books of by-gone days—the old books, the old books! They are as real and as fresh as ever and seem to reflect something of the divine architect. They do not teach, nor preach, nor scold us into being good. The new books are full of just and obscenity.

"All higher fancies should be cultivated; joy, admiration, and aspiration. All obstructions to this three-fold power should be shunned.

MISSION OF THE POET.

"The mission of a poet is to supplement with his exceptional powers the defects of inferior beings. It is threefold to charm, to strengthen, and to please. God sent sinners with songs of sadness and of mirth. He whose ear is tuned aright will be understood.

"The test whether a poem is wholesome or not lies in its power to please, console and strengthen, to teach, to incite to action, to soothe with proper serenity. If it fails to do that, if it leads to no noble feelings, yields no fresh strength, no deeper trust in God, but gives only pain whose cause is pain, it is perverse, and should never have been written. We must have a safeguard against the latter kind and watch its influence on our mood. A noble poem cleanses, enriches us, elevates our trust in God, brings us with closer fellowship with man, and tides us over life's meaner cares. We must shun all poetry that complains, and mirrors the spiritual diseases of its author.

"In a word, that poetry is good which stimulates us to the completion of our destiny, and, on the contrary, that which impedes or obstructs is bad. Literature is a record of what the best have experienced and have had the power to express artistically.

"This is given to only a few, but when, by pure and permanent methods, they aim to warm man, to guide and instruct him, they have aided him towards the fruition of his destiny. But, whatever tends to mislead or dishearten man should be shunned and rejected."

MORBID POEMS.

The speaker then gave several examples of morbid poems. The first was entitled "Solitude."

"Solitude is a feeling, said the speaker, "which all sensitive and affectionate beings are subject to. They should guard against it by being cheerful and busy. Inaction, excessive self-contemplation lead to morbidness. The cure lies in the society of man, of nature, of God, who is ever near."

Dr. Alger then read another poem, which had solitude for its theme also. But the difference lay in the one's being "a dim, moralizing whine, the other a breezy picture, tending to draw attention outward, and arousing sympathy, and is thus praiseworthy.

"One test of a wholesome poem is that it gives pleasure. But I do not mean by that that it must give no pain, only it must not give useless pain. There is too much of the hollow, glittering style of poetry, too much melodious slush. Morbidness from this source is as prevalent as infections from a diseased body, but great productions are rare. We must chisel out the great. It means toil to equal the greatest.

MISSION OF POETRY.

"We should not read poetry passively, but actively, to digest it properly, absorbing the good and ejecting the bad.

"A poem should teach charity and placidity. A poet is an apostle of charity, but, if he stirs up contempt and hatred, his pen becomes a weapon of evil. The mission of poetry is to sweeten and ennoble life. The poet who indulges in sneers and complaints is false to his mission. Love is the fountain of charm, and charm is the poet's alone. A sound and genuine poet should neutralize evil. But a poet whose work increases our antipathies and destroys our peace should be shunned. The healthy poet is ordained a purveyor of delight. The character of a poet's feelings determines his influence over his readers. So of the readers—the prosperity of a jest lies in the ear of him who hears it. The spontaneous reaction in our souls in reading a noble poem is a test of our character. Intellects feeling more keenly the sorrows and evils of the world are more apt to become morbid. As for example, Carlyle and Ruskin."

The speaker dwelt further on these examples, and showed that there were three ways, and only three, of escape: First, a heroic conservation of soul to its own perfection; second, by turning away from the world and seeking refuge in religion; third, by flinging himself into the midst of the conflict, which can be the only satisfactory method to a strong and noble nature. Such a one cannot believe that any evils in a world created by God are unconquerable.

"It belongs to the nobler poets," was the speakers closing thought, "to inspire hope, to diffuse beauty, to enkindle enthusiasm. There is nothing beyond poetry."

Our Merchant Marine.

In his inaugural address President McKinley declared that Congress ought to give prompt attention to the restoration of the American merchant marine, "once the pride of the seas in all the great ocean highways of commerce." He said that few subjects so imperatively demanded legislation, and the aim should be to give American shipping sufficient for our entire carrying trade to foreign countries.

It is evident that such an increase of our merchantmen would be a great task, and the natural inquiry is how it can be accomplished. British attention was at once fixed on this striking passage in the address. The President would, presumably, be among the very last to abrogate the registry laws, designed for the fostering of American ship yards, that date from the foundation of the republic and have endured to this day. Assuming that free trade in ships is entirely out of the question, some British critics have naturally looked to subsidies, so much employed by their own and other European countries, as the policy which Congress may be asked to establish. But the London Standard declares that, "however subsidized, no marine can flourish on cargoes carried only one way," while the News dispels the fear that Great Britain will cease to carry our goods for us by saying that the President's project is "not exactly for today."

It may not have occurred to many foreign observers that the President perhaps has in mind a revival of the system of discriminating duties in favor of products brought in American ships, such as prevailed during all the early years of the republic and was established expressly to secure the building up of our mercantile marine.—New York Sun (Ind. Dem.)

IT WAS A SUCCESS.

The Trebelli Concert Last Night Brought Out a Large Audience.

The concert last night given by Trebelli, Weiss and Miss Bowes, at the First Congregational Church, brought out a good sized and fashionable audience. The affair, from an artistic standpoint, was a success, and the clever participants were frequently obliged to respond to hearty encores.

Trebelli was at her best, and she scored another hit. Herr Arthur Weiss, the noted 'cellist, is certainly an artist far above the ordinary, while Miss Carrie Bowes created a favorable impression on the piano forte.

Beside the full programme, as published in the Tribune, the following encores were given: A Scotch ballad, "Somebody," and the "Laughing Song," by Trebelli; "Spinning Song" and Weiss' "Berceuse," by Weiss, and Godard's "Mazurka," by Miss Bowes.

Mortgage Sale of Homes. See Laymance ad.

"I think I can locate the meanest man in the country," said a well known lawyer yesterday. "He lives in the northern section of the city and is worth probably $10,000. No, he's not a friend of mine; merely an acquaintance. I ran across him yesterday, for the first time in months, on a street car. After exchanging the customary greetings, he asked me if I'd paid my fare. I hadn't and told him so, 'Well,' said he, 'give me your nickel.' I did so, expecting to see him hand the conductor a dime. To my surprise he passed up two exchange tickets instead. 'You see,' he said in explanation, 'I always buy an exchange when I pay a fare. As I use the cars a good many times in a day, I have quite a few tickets by night. Whenever I can utilize one I am two cents in pocket, and in a case like this I am four cents ahead.' I put this money away, and so far this season have bought myself a suit with the amount saved, and my little girl has nearly $5 in her bank from this source'."—Philadelphia Record.

A man might as well try to swim with a ball and chain on his ankles as to go through life weighted down with disease. He has no chance at all to win the race, if he keeps his head above water he is lucky. The chances are he will be swamped.

Indigestion and constipation drag more people down than poverty. They are as common as poverty and they are worse, because they cause poverty. A sick man can't work. Beside that, constipation causes nine-tenths of all the other diseases. It makes the blood foul and clogs up the whole system. The liver has no chance to work. The stomach has no power to digest food. The whole human machinery is blocked by constipation.

There have been all sorts of attempted cures for it, but nothing has ever succeeded like Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. The cure they make is natural and scientific and permanent. They never act violently. You don't become a slave to their use. Some druggists make a little more profit on "something else." Look out for that.

People would hardly ever need to be sick if they had Dr. Pierce's thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," always at hand. It explains the laws of hygiene; tells how to keep well; and gives over two hundred prescriptions for curing common ailments without a doctor. It explains anatomy and physiology and gives more valuable information than any book of the kind ever printed.

A paper-bound copy will be sent free on receipt of twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. A handsome cloth-bound silver-stamped copy for ten cents extra.

HOW THE NEWS CAME.

Half a Million Words of the Big Fight Sent From Carson.

The Western Union Built a New System and No One Was Disappointed.

Very few of the thousands who read the complete bulletins and telegraphic news furnished of the recent affair at Carson by the Tribune ever give a thought to the amount of foresight, judgment and hard work necessary to produce such results.

This is but one of thousands of papers that gave to assembled crowds the news of the great fight a few seconds after each blow was struck, each round completed. The Western Union Telegraph Company handled all this volume of business with a remarkable smoothness and not one of the papers had the slightest reason to record a kick.

The local manager, when asked to tell of some of the methods adopted by his company to insure such results said:

"When the location of the prize fight at Carson was announced, this company had but one wire to that point from Reno, thirty-one miles distant. In the six weeks that intervened between the time that Carson was selected and the date of the fight the Western Union Company strung eight wires at a cost of about $12,000. These wires, fitted with the multiplex and Wheatstone systems, gave a capacity of over 30,000 words an hour. The operating force at Carson, which usually consists of one office manager, who is also the operator, was increased to thirty of the most skillful manipulators of the telegraph key in our service. The cost of instrument and battery equipment brought the total expense to the Western Union Telegraph Company to over $20,000.

"Two wires were strung from the ring side to our main office at Carson, and there connected to the bulletin wire, which worked on the multiplex system, and sent the bulletins simultaneously East and West to the large relay office at Chicago and San Francisco, where they were recopied and distributed to our subscribers.

"On account of the large amount of money that was being wagered upon the result of the contest, a scheme was devised by certain parties to "tap" our bulletin wire and hold back the result of the fight long enough to enable the originators of the scheme to place "sure thing" bets upon the winner. Of this we were informed and arrangements were at once made to patrol the line to prevent the plan from being carried out.

"Mr. F. G. Dickinson, the operator who sent the bulletins from the ring side, was carefully selected, not only for his skill as a telegrapher, but also on account of his knowledge and experience in pugilistic matters, and his ability to describe in a graphic and terse manner the movements of the pugilists at the moment of their occurrence. Seated close to the ropes, with his hand upon the key, and keenly watching the fighters, he rapidly transmitted a running commentary upon each round so that a blow was scarcely struck before the announcement was flashed to the crowds in both Eastern and Western cities, who were congregated about bulletin boards.

"Representatives of some eighty newspapers were in attendance at Carson, and the amount of specials filed by them on March 17th descriptive of the fight, aggregated nearly half a million words, equivalent to 500 closely printed columns of a newspaper, and this vast amount of matter was promptly handled to the entire satisfaction of the papers to which the matter was addressed."

LIKE HYPNOTISM.

Habits That Appear Almost Hypnotic.

The tenacity with which some habits stick to people, or people stick to the habits, is very remarkable, particularly the tobacco and coffee habit.

People act almost as if they were in reality under a hypnotic spell. They promise themselves and friends time and again that they will leave off, when they find health forsaking them, but they make one excuse or another and keep on the dreary way as if guided by an unseen spirit of evil.

Physicians realize the uselessness of treating a patient for any of the multitude of nervous diseases so long as the poisonous alkaloids of tobacco and coffee are being taken into the system, even in minute doses.

It is a simple matter to break the coffee spell if the old food-drink, Postum Cereal Co, ltm., of Battle Creek, Michigan, is used in its place. This is a fac-simile of fine Mocho coffee in looks when brewed, and changes to the rich golden brown of old Java when cream is added. Being made wholly of grains intended by the Creator for man's subsistence, it makes red blood quickly and is fattening and nourishing. The muddy complexion disappears and in its place comes the clear skin of health with rich blood coursing back of it. Many people are sick and do not know that it is the insidious poison of coffee that prostrates stomach and liver and causes it. They laugh at first, but a trial of a week without coffee and using the food-drink Postum, makes one wake up to a great big live fact.

The children can sip from papa's or mamma's coffee cup, if it happens to contain Postum and their little bodies will grow round and fat under the nourishment of the pure grains, but it is a heartless proceeding to feed the tender bodies on coffee, as every one knows the puny, sickly looks of coffee drinking children.

Let people adopt healthful food and drink and "throw physic to the dogs."

"Just as good" as Postum Cereal are words used to defraud the public.

THE ENDEAVORERS.

Where Their Great Meeting in July Next Will Be Held.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the forthcoming convention of the Christian Endeavorers in San Francisco, make the following announcement:

The International Convention of the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor, which will meet in San Francisco, July 7th to 12th, next, has been sought for by California Endeavorers ever since 1892. They have, for many months, been engaged in the preparations, and are expecting great things of the convention when it comes. The fact that for at least three years past Endeavorers all over the land have been planning to come to California, together with the granting of a very low rate by the railroad companies, insures large delegations. The wonderful scenic features of California and her delightful climate, will certainly induce many persons to come merely for the trip. Conservative estimates place the number of visitors at from 15,000 to 25,000, and those figures may be exceeded.

The principal meeting places will be two in number—Mechanics' Pavilion and Woodward's Pavilion. The former is a mammoth building occupying all but a few feet of an entire block of land in the heart of the city. The interior of this hall is so spacious that it will be necessary to erect within it a smaller building for the accommodation of the convention meetings. This smaller building will seat from 7,500 to 10,000 persons, and will be completely shut in by sound-proof partitions. Outside the meeting hall will be built rooms for State headquarters, committee rooms, press rooms, etc.

Woodward's Pavilion, distant about ten minutes' easy walk from Mechanics' Pavilion, is an octagonal shaped building capable of seating 6,000 or 7,000 persons.

Both these pavilions are readily reached by means of the street cars from all portions of the city.

Besides these two buildings, a large number of churches and halls will be used for early morning prayer meetings, overflow meetings, etc.

A different plan will be pursued this year with regard to headquarters. Owing to the great size of the Mechanics' Pavilion, all States will be assigned space there for headquarters, thus doing away with the use of churches for that purpose.

The music will be a feature of this, as of previous conventions. A chorus of several thousand voices is already in process of organization, and will soon begin work upon some of the world's masterpieces of sacred songs, as well as upon the familiar Christian Endeavor hymns. The members of the chorus will be drawn from the larger cities of the State as well as from San Francisco.

THEY WANT HELP.

There is a man and a woman in Oakland who are trying, by various means, to gain a livelihood from the benevolent associations. The man says his name is William Easton and the woman claims to be his wife. The woman who is a strong, lusty creature, recently appeared at the office of the Associated Charities and demanded assistance saying that her husband was sick and she was starving.

The superintendent of the Charities started out to investigate.

No sick husband was found at the address given by the woman, so word was left for Easton to appear at the Associated Charities' office the next morning.

Great was the superintendent's surprise when a man weighing at least 200 pounds and the picture of health made his appearance and asked for aid. He was given work but soon relinquished his job. The couple disappeared and were not seen for over a month, when the man suddenly reappeared, said his wife was dead and demanded work.

The next day the woman appeared, said her husband had disappeared and begged for assistance. The superintendent of the Charities is now trying to find the husband and induce him to support the wife, if it be true that he is really alive and his wife, contrary to his statement, is really not dead.

HOSPITAL CARES.

Many Minor Cases for the Surgeon's Needle and Knife.

Fred R. Moore a painter living at 415 Fourth street was accidentally shot in the heel last night by his revolver falling from the bureau. The ball was extracted at the Receiving Hospital. The wound was so slight that the patient left the hospital and attended a party.

William Smith, a young man formerly employed at Ellason's book store is lying at the Receiving Hospital suffering from dropsical troubles.

Eddie Gelfpe, a Third street lad was bit on the wrist yesterday by a dog belonging to Daniel Hast.

William Stein, a teamster, was treated at the Hospital for an abrasion on the hand caused by a horse kick.

CHILDREN'S EYESIGHT.

Superintendent J. W. McClymonds of the Board of Education has issued the following notice in connection with the provision of the Board for the testing of the school children's eyesight:

"Notice is hereby given that there will be a meeting of principals held on Tuesday, March 23, 1897, at 3:30 P. M., in the library rooms, High School building for the purpose of instructing principals in the use of 'Fennimore's Test Charts' in testing the eyes of pupils. This meeting is important and all principals are requested to be present."

A Pleasing Entertainment.

A very interesting entertainment will be given at Castle Hall, Twenty-third avenue near Fourteenth street, tonight. It is entitled "An evening in the kindergarten" and is warranted to be full of amusements.

Complete preparations for the affair have been made by the ladies in charge and a good attendance is to be expected.

PRIZE FIGHT PICTURES.

An Illinoisan Legislator Who Is Opposed to Their Production.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 19.—Representative W. O. Lamonte, of Chicago, today introduced a bill in the Legislature with the emergency clause attached which will prohibit, if it becomes law, the reproduction of prize fight pictures, and fixes a severe penalty for violating it. Lamonte has had in mind such a measure ever since it was announced by the press that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight would be reproduced in this manner.

During the last three or four days, he received a large number of letters from business men and fathers advocating the passage of such a bill. The bill prohibits the exhibition, not only of pictures of prize fights, but any other act prohibited in the criminal code of this State.

FLOODS COMING.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The heavy rains of the past forty-eight hours in the central valleys will cause a continued rise in the Cumberland, the Tennessee, the lower Ohio and the Mississippi Rivers and intensify the threatened flood conditions previously announced.

It is probable that the floods in the lower Mississippi valley, during the next ten days or two weeks will in many places equal or exceed those of any previous year.

Additional warning is given to residents in the threatened districts in Louisiana, Arkansas and West Mississippi to remove from the region of danger.

MAY REVOLT.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LONDON, March 19.—A special from Galatz, Roumania, says it is announced there in police circles that a plot is being hatched among the Greeks in Constantinople, where 30,000 well armed Greeks live, to revolt against the government. There are a few Turkish troops now at Constantinople, except the Sultan's body guard and it would be impossible to hurriedly recall the troops from the Greek frontier in the event of revolt.

CONSULAR CHANGES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—General Draper of Massachusetts may yet go to Havana as Consul General to succeed General Fitzhugh Lee. He admits that President McKinley has solicited him to accept the appointment, and while he is averse to so doing, and has so expressed himself to the President, he does not feel like ignoring the President's wishes in the matter. This, it is said, means that if he is pressed he will accept.

In the event of this becoming General Lee's successor, it is said to be the purpose of the President to allow Minister Taylor to remain at Madrid for the time being.

It is the belief of the Administration that the Cuban question will be solved in a few months, and after it is settled an attempt will be made to have the Ministerships of Spain and Russia raised to Ambassadorships.

When this is done, if General Draper is persona grata to Spain, he may receive that appointment. If not, the Minister selected for Russia may be transferred and General Draper given the mission to St. Petersburg.

SOUTHERN CYCLONE.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

JACKSON, Miss., March 19.—A severe wind storm struck Jackson this morning at 6 o'clock, coming from the southwest, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. As far as known there has been no loss of life; although heavy trees were blown up by roots, houses unroofed, fences and out buildings destroyed and signs blown away.

Jackson is entirely isolated in the matter of telegraphic communication and, on that account nothing can be heard from the surrounding country. It is probable that serious damage has been done. It is reported from Glendale, Miss., that the levee has broken there and that Lake Tchula has risen four feet. It is reported from Raymond, Miss., that property at Cooper's Wells, a summer resort near there, has been considerably damaged by the cyclone.
